Fingerprint lifted from fence

The darkened spot on the fence rail still shows signs of the place where Dunklin County authorities allegedly took a bloody fingerprint belonging to Dr. Norman Garrison of Corinth, Miss., the day (Sept. 8) his ex-wife was murdered. The plush home lies in the background. Authorities have released little other evidence to link the doctor to the murder of the 32- year - old mother of four.

Attacks grow on surtax proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A number of Republican candidates in next month's elections have disassociated themselves from the anti-inflation surtax that President Ford contends would cost taxpayers only a few cents a day.

Criticism from GOP Senate and gubernatorial candidates came as the senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., said he believes the fate of Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal "rests on the American public and what they tell us when we go home."

Ford, who has conceded that many thought the tax proposal "politically unwise" just four weeks before the Nov. 5 elections, tried a new approach in defending it Wednesday at his outdoor news conference in the White House Rose Garden.

A family of four with $20,000 gross income would pay $42, or 12 cents a day, while a family with $16,000 income would pay only $3 — or less than one penny per day, Ford said.

And he said that only 28 per cent of the nation's taxpayers would pay any additional tax. He said enactment of the surtax and the rest of his anti-inflation package could produce "a meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation" by early 1975.

Ford went to Philadelphia to boost Republican candidates Wednesday night. He told a fund-raising dinner the surtax is fair and equitable.

The American people "want to step up and do what's right. Politicians ought to do the same thing," Ford said.

But just before the President arrived, the Republican gubernatorial candidate in Pennsylvania, Drew Lewis, told reporters he opposed the surtax and suggested closing tax loopholes instead.

And Republican Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania, also up for re-election, denounced the surtax.

In Kansas, GOP Sen. Robert Dole declared that many people in the state who made $15,000 were suffering economically and "the last thing they need is an additional surtax to pay."

Ford also said at his news conference:

—He believes a one-year surtax will be sufficient, instead of a two-year tax suggested by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the acting head of the House Ways and Means Committee.

—There has been "nothing to change" his inclination to run for the presidency in 1976.

—He will meet Oct. 21 with Mexican President Luis Echeverria in Nogales, Mexico, his first trip outside the continental United States since becoming President.

—He doesn't think there was anything improper in gifts by Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller to several individuals, including Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger before Kissinger joined the government.

—He would meet with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev prior to a scheduled summit meeting next year if there is need for an earlier conference.

—He declined any new comment on his pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon prior to Ford's appearance before a House Judiciary subcommittee on Oct. 17.

Rep. Mills in seclusion after bizarre incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills spent at least part of the evening drinking, dining and dancing with friends hours before he was involved in a bizarre incident in which one of his women companions was rescued from drowning by police.

The manager of a Washington night club where the Arkansas Democrat has been a frequent patron said Mills, three women and another man were in the establishment for about three hours on Sunday night.

During that time they had dinner and drinks which cost about $80 in all and then left, according to George Bertran, 47, manager of the Junkanoo restaurant on fashionable Connecticut Avenue. None of the group appeared intoxicated when they left about 9:30 p.m., he said.

The whereabouts of the influential 65-year-old congressman, chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means committee, remained a mystery between that hour and the 2 a.m. incident at the Tidal Basin near the Jefferson Memorial.

Mills himself remained in seclusion late Wednesday as the U.S. Park Police disputed a claim Mills made through aides that he was not present at the incident and knew nothing about it.

Mills is currently involved in a re-election campaign and facing his stiffest challenge in years from a woman Republican candidate.

As recounted by police, the Tidal Basin incident occurred when two officers stopped a 1973 Lincoln Continental that was traveling at an unreasonable speed with lights out at 2 a.m. Monday. Five people spilled out. The car was registered to Mills, police said.

They said one of the men identified himself to the officers as Mills and the police report, according to Franklin A. Arthur, assistant chief of the Park Police, described this man as "intoxicated." His face was scratched and bleeding, they said.

While police questioned the group, a woman identified as Anabella Battistella, crying and shouting in mixed Spanish and English, ran to a bridge and leaped into the water. She was rescued by an officer who dove in after her.

In a news conference called after Mills' claim that he was not involved, Arthur said, "We can assume it was Rep. Mills." He added, "I think the officers would recognize" him.

Mississippi officials hearing Garrison extradition case today

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final of a three- part series dealing with an investigation by Daily Standard state editor Ron Jaynes and special correspondent Mark Geers into the Sept. 8 murder of Lee Ann Garrison.)

JACKSON, Miss. — Evidence supporting the claim of Dr. Norman Asa Garrison Jr. of Corinth, Miss., that he was in Mississippi at the time of his ex-wife was murdered Sept. 8 in Kennett, Mo., was presented today to James E. Williams, a legal assistant to Gov. Bill Waller, at a hearing on an extradition request by the state of Missouri.

A decision will be made today either to extradite or deny any extradition, or the matter could be taken under advisement.

Dr. Garrison's attorneys said that if extradition is denied, the governor of Missouri would be asked to exonerate the doctor of the charges.

John B. Farese Sr., chief counsel for Dr. Garrison, presented nine affidavits sworn to by witnesses who said they had been with, seen or talked to the doctor Sept. 7 and 8 in Mississippi. Also presented at today's hearing was Dr. Garrison's own sworn statement as to his whereabouts on the two days.

Charles H. Baker, Dunklin County, Mo., prosecuting attorney, was expected to present evidence supporting his claim that Dr. Garrison was in Kennett on the day of the murder and that he was present at the murder scene at the time the crime was committed.

Farese and John Hopkins, attorneys for Dr. Garrison, were to present evidence that Dr. Garrison was in Tishomingo County, Miss., at the time of the murder, not in Kennett as the prosecution claims.

As this article was being written, few details of the Dunklin County prosecuting attorney's case against the doctor were known. Baker has steadfastly refused to discuss the evidence his office has gathered.

However, some information has been obtained about his expected

Lewis, LaRue bound over to Circuit Court

BLOOMFIELD — Melvin Leon Lewis of Sikeston and David LaRue of Gray Ridge have been bound over to Circuit Court on three counts of first degree murder, according to an attorney representing LaRue.

The decision was handed down Wednesday afternoon by Magistrate Jerry Estes of Cape Girardeau, who was appointed as special judge over the case following disqualification of Stoddard County Magistrate Koss Blomeyer. Judge Estes had taken the case under advisement following a preliminary hearing Tuesday to determine if the two should stand trial.

Lewis and LaRue are charged with the murder of three of the five Lewis children, Melvin Jr., 7, Jody, 6, and Mark, 5, by setting fire to the Lewises rural Essex home on Aug. 1, 1973.

Inquiry begins into plane crash

CHARLESTON — An inquiry into the crash of the crop dusting plane in which the pilot, Jimmy Johnson, 36, of rural Charleston was killed about 10:45 a.m. Wednesday is being conducted by officials from the Federal Aviation Administration office in St. Louis, according to Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

McMikle also said an autopsy is being performed at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Johnson reportedly had just finished seeding a wheat field when the plane crashed in a soybean field about two miles southeast of Charleston on the Harry Giltz farm.

Born Oct. 13, 1937 in Lepanto, Ark., Johnson was the son of Mrs. Addie Johnson of Anna, Ill., and Bud Johnson of Morehouse, who survive.

He had lived in the Charleston area nine years and was owner and operator of the Gulf Oil Co. station on Highway 60 east of Charleston and the Jimmy Johnson Flying Service.

On Dec. 3, 1969, he married Juanita Pinkard, who survives.

He is also survived by one daughter, Diane Johnson of the home, one brother and four sisters.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. today at McMikle Funeral Home, where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday. The Rev. Larry Long, pastor of First Christain Church, will officiate.

Burial will follow in IOOF Cemetery.

Charleston gas station robbed

CHARLESTON — Two white men armed with pistols robbed two attendants of $53.85 at the Hudson Oil Co. station on Highway 60-62 near the Mississippi River bridge about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday, according to Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons.

One of the men was described as being tall and bald with long sideburns and the other as being short.

Reportedly, the men drove up to the gasoline pumps. One of the men went into the station, pulled a gun on attendant Fred Haley and made him walk behind the building and lay down, where he took $49.84 in company

About face; Man blocks trains with automobile

CHAFFEE — Although Chaffee residents occasionally must wait as long as 40 minutes for a train to clear a railroad crossing, seldom does anyone try to do anything about the situation.

However, Fred Golightly, 339 E. Parker St., decided Friday was the time to show Frisco Railway Co. just how frustrating the situation can be.

According to Golightly, at 3:55 p.m. Friday be began waiting in line for a train to pass, and at 4:40 p.m. he was still waiting.

By this time Golightly said he was not in a very pleasant mood, so, after taking his family home when the crossing finally opened, he returned to the scene, parked his car on the railroad tracks, locked it and left.

Approximately 20 minutes later, he returned to the scene and discovered railroad officials were going to have his car removed with a wrecker.

When asked what he was going to do, Golightly replied, "I'm doing nothing, just like you were doing an hour ago".

Golightly refused to move his car until 45 minutes had passed. Then he got into his car and drove away.

Golightly says he has lost several hours of work because of trains blocking the crossing for similar periods of time.

"The Chaffee city ordinance reads that the tracks should not be blocked for more than 10 minutes, but the railroad people just don't pay any attention to it," he remarked.

"I do not mind waiting in line for 10 or 15 minutes,

Bond issue election set

DEXTER — The Dexter school board has set Nov. 19 as the date for a special bond issue referendum. Officials are asking voters to approve $1.3 million in funds for construction of a new junior high school and a five- room addition to the high school.

"This is a good, round number," Supt. Thurston Hill told the board at its Monday night meeting, "and should be quite adequate."

The school district can legally go into debt up to 10 per cent of the total assessed evaluation in the district.

"We could legally ask voters to approve an additional $65,000," Hill said, "but it's not needed right now. Besides, it's always a good idea to have a little cushion."

The board approved only the amount of the bond issue. The sale of the bonds and how the district will pay them off will not be determined until after the election.

If the bond issue wins voter approval, "there is no reason why we can't let out the contracts in the spring," Hill said.

Tentative plans call for the building to be completed and in use by the 1976-77 school year.

In other business, the board set a $5 per night fee for use of any school gym on week nights and $15 for use on Saturday and Sunday.

This will barely cover expenses, Hill said. The higher rate on the weekend is due to the fact that custodians will have to do extra work and be paid time and a half.

The fee schedule was worked out in response to a number of groups wishing to use school facilities. These rates are good only if there are no paying spectators or large numbers of spectators.

It was also announced at the meeting that attendance in the district had increased by 45 students over last year, with 2,226 students enrolled at the end of the first month this year, compared with 2,181 at the same time last year.

"LEST WE FORGET ..."

Toward the end of summer, when POW Emmet Kay was released by the Pathet Lao Communists, some news stories alleged that Mr. Kay was the "last known" prisoner to be held by the Reds.

It is true that the Communists have steadfastly maintained that there are no other Americans being held captive in Communist occupied territory. But, we have no reason to believe that they are telling the truth.

It is known that 1140 Americans classified as missing in action and 1266 more who were believed to have been killed in action in Communist zones have never been accounted for. Not only have the Communists refused to give us any information whatsoever about these men, they have also refused to allow American or neutral identification teams to go to known crash sites to recover remains or determine if the pilot and/or crew got out of the plane. In deed, when one unarmed U. S. identification team endeavored to go to a crash site in South (not North) Vietnam, the Captain of the team was murdered in cold blood by the Viet Cong, who had deliberately set up an ambush.

It is further known that some of the missing men were alive — and, according to the Communists themselves, "well" — after their capture in Communist zones, because the Communists themselves photographed the prisoners and then distributed the pictures as part of their propaganda campaigns. The Communists now allege, with straight faces, that they know nothing about them.

We know that in a similar confrontation with the Russian Communists, after World War II, an American civilian, John Noble, was reported "missing." For ten solid years, in spite of repeated inquiries, the Communists maintained that they knew nothing of Noble. In fact, he was held in Soviet concentration camps for the entire period, and only through a miracle (which Noble attributes to God) was he able to smuggle word out, which finally led to his release.

Americans must not forget the missing and killed in action, and we must never cease in our demands that the Communists abide by the Paris Accords, and allow us to go to the crash sites and bring home the dead for proper burial... as well as determining the whereabouts of those, living or dead, who were known to have been captured.

If in place of taking the tax out of each week's pay check the worker were paid in full the first three weeks each month and the month's total withholding tax taken out of fourth week, this tax would be put in its true light. Perhaps no one would want to work over three weeks. The outcry would be quite loud and no doubt those with their "ears to the ground" would be quick to cut government costs. This requires change in tax regulations.

PURCHASE PRICE IS ONLY THE BEGINNING

If you think that the prices of most consumer goods have been going up, you are correct. But if you really want to know about the hidden costs of products, such as consumer appliances, hold on to your chairs.

According to a recent report by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the hidden costs of major consumer appliances are already at least equal to the purchase price and threaten to jump sharply in the future.

"The American public generally is unaware of the 'life- cycle costs' of major appliances, which in addition to purchase price, include costs of maintenance and repairing, servicing, electrical operating energy, and even disposal,' says the report.

In 1972, the MIT says, the American consumer paid between $2.5 and $4 billion for radio, TV and household appliance repair, and another $5 billion for energy to operate these products. Sometimes the service costs for such appliances alone can cost more than the entire purchase price.

And with electric power rates rising — a projected 75 per cent increase between 1975 and 1980 — this cost can be greater than both service costs and purchase price, the MIT report says.

The recently published report is called "The Productivity of Serving Consumer Durable Products." It's major purpose was to "examine alternatives for increasing appliance service productivity in the context of what the consumer pays for a product during its usable life."

Focusing mainly on the color television and refrigerator industries — two of the largest in terms of consumer spending — the report makes some striking observations.

The owner of a $500 color television set, for example, can expect to spend another $500 on the set for servicing and electrical power costs during the TV's usable life.

In the same way, the owner of a $400 refrigerator will spend about $1,100 on it during its life.

The MIT study joins thousands of disgruntled consumers who have already charged that product reliability must be increased to reduce service costs over a product's usable life.

Progress has already been made in this area, the report notes, for in the last eight years there has been a 50 per cent decline in the need for service of color television sets and a similar decline in refrigerators over the last 14 years

Unfortunately service costs have increased so greatly that they have offset what otherwise would have been a sharply reduced "life cycle cost" for those two items.

So where will it all end? Someday, perhaps, an appliance such as a color TV may need to be serviced only once in its entire usable lifetime.

When that time comes, however, the TV repairmen will have so little to do they will be forced to raise their fees to several hundred dollars per visit just to make a living.

Then, of course, we'll be right back where we started.

Ford loses

When these deserters and dodgers get presidential forgiveness, would you be willing to hire one of them and let the public know your staff included such a person? And the biggest joke of it all is to require these quitters to take an oath of allegiance to the United States. Just what would that mean? If they didn't like what the U.S. was doing, they wouldn't feel they were obligated by that oath. Quite likely we won't be here to vote in 1976, but you can write it down now we won't vote for Ford, just like we wouldn't vote for either McGovern or Nixon in 1972. Surely the two parties will profit by their experience and be more careful in choosing their next candidates.

Ashcroft's

John Ashcroft, the State Auditor (a Republican) has been trying very hard for the past year -and -a half to find evidence of wrongdoing on the part of Warren E. Hearnes while the latter served as Governor of Missouri.

You can bet that the GOP official, an appointee of Governor Christopher "Kit" Bond, would have given his eyeteeth to be able to "pin a rap" on Governor Hearnes. (Hearnes, in case you did not know it, is a Democrat.)

We imagine Mr. Ashcroft was expecting to find that millions of dollars in state funds had gone into the pockets of Hearnes and his administration's insiders.

Instead of that, we find released with much publicity this week, and with headlines that can only harm the reputation of Mr. Hearnes was guilty of so -called "illegal actions."

Ashcroft, who is running for election to the office he has helf by appointment since Bond resigned in 1973, says the former Governor made several errors. What he does not say is how Hearnes personally made a dime off the state by any of these so -called "illegal" transactions.

We are disappointed in Warren E. Hearnes. We would have thought that if a governor were really smart, and wanted to steal from the state, he could have stolen enough so that he would no longer have to work and make a living.

Seriously, however, we question the sincerity and validity of Mr. Ashcroft's findings -particularly in view of the timing of their release to the public - just a month before the general election.

As in so many other instances, the State Auditor's reports are based on his own interpretation of the laws. In most cases there is a valid reason for actions which may appear to the Auditor to be in violation of the law.

Knowing this, Mr. Ashcroft has repeatedly ignored requests from Mr. Hearnes for details about some of the "violations" of which he is accusing the former Governor.

As we read the Ashcroft charges reported in the daily newspapers, these are the nit -picking findings of a worried politician who is trying to find some issue that will keep himself in office.

Still More
Turmoil

There is something about Richard M. Nixon that seems to involve violence. Certain aspects of his life seem to invite violence and it's been that way rather much through the years.

Violence even got involved in his going to the hospital a few days ago. He wanted secrecy, of course, and we suppose that as involved as he has been in scandal he is entitled to secrecy. But he's still news.

So when he went to the hospital and tried to go through a side door there were newsmen waiting for him. One asked about his health and got this kind remark, "Good afternoon." But one NBC newsman, with a camera, did not fare so well. One of the men guarding Mr. Nixon knocked it from the newsman and broke it. So Mr. Nixon went right onto into the hospital.

All I Know Is...

This is a familiar line used by Cowboy -philosopher Will Rogers, who concluded it with, "what I read in the newspapers."

Since the newspapers explore issues in depth and at greater length than most other media and in a form which a reader can adapt to his own time schedule, the newspaper remains our basic source for continuing information.

Some of the experts say that the newspaper will be the significant, thriving entity in the communications world of 1980. The future newspaper many not look like the one we know today, but in the words of Joseph Pulitzer, "Our Republic and its press will rise or fall together."

Since the newspaper plays such a key part in our future it figures that publisher advertiser, reader form a tight knit group. The proper development of a newspaper is so important to our democratic society, and to all of us as individuals, that it merits strong support so it can perform its function well.

Many Factors
In Heart Disease

Deaths from heart disease "have reached epidemic proportions in the U.S." so reads a story by a staff reporter of The Wall Street Journal. The story is based on information. released by a National Institues of Health advisory committee. The committee called for a new national program to combat heart disease and urged the appointment of a Presidential commission to plan such a program.

Meanwhile, science is continuing its search for the reasons why cardiovascular disease is the leading medical cause of death in the U.S. The evidence seems to be mounting, for example, that the answer is far more complicated than merely forcing a change in the nation's diet --telling normal, healthy people what they should or should not eat. A Food Writer's Conference, held by the National Dairy Council in Chicago, at which eminent nutrition research scientists described various studies relating to the causes of heart disease, has revealed complexities of the problem that go far beyond diet. Hugh B. Lofland, Ph. D., of North Carolina, who has conducted heart research for 15 years, concludes that genetics --who your parents are --is an important factor in heart disease. He believes susceptible people can and should be identified so that physicians can prescribe treatment. Dr. Meyer Friedman, addressing the conference, noted that personality traits such as aggressiveness, ambition, drive, competitiveness, and a profound sense of time urgency characterize the behavior of persons most prone to heart attacks.

The principal conclusion inevitably drawn from meetings in which the best scientific minds offer the findings of broad research is that until more is known about the cause of "heart trouble", the normal, healthy person should steer clear of emotional fads involving diet. A balanced diet chosen from the four basic food groups --plus eating and exercising in moderation-- is still very likely the best recipe for good health.

ANOTHER ELECTION

A summer of crisis has passed and Republic USA stands with its head high in the family of nations. Once again, we have proved that we can weather critical situations in government, shortages in materials and foodstuffs and drouth and deluge. It would not be accurate to say that we have solved all our problems but there is evidence that we are working on them. Now we are into autumn and face the general elections in November. It's a good feeling to know that the ballot box will be in place and that at that box we will elect many of the people who will play key roles in our governmental process.

The national, state and local elections give us a voice in many facets of government, including the manner in which the problem of inflation is tackled. This column has always advocated the free marketplace as the means of price control and it is our belief that those candidates who lean in that direction will be the most constructive in whipping out inflationary pressures on the economy. Balancing budgets should get a lot of voter attention, also, and that includes state and county as well as federal.

One budget item that looms over all is that which is earmarked for national defense. The Republic must remain strong in this field. A free economy will surpass that of the communists any time. To endanger our system of government with defense slashes could make moot all our efforts in whipping domestic problems. Thus, the ballot box looms more vital than ever for that is where the big decisions will be made this November. HLH

TRIAL BALLOONS

WASHINGTON — Deep in the heart of the White House, far from the prying eyes of the public and press, is one of the most important rooms in the government. It is the place where they blow up the trial balloons which are floated by the Ford Administration.

Thanks to a source who shall remain nameless, I managed to get into the room and see for myself how this all-important operation functions.

The room was very long -- the size of a football field -- and divided into workbenches. On each bench was seated a member of the Administration or friend of President Ford blowing up large funny- shaped balloons.

They were so busy with their work, they didn't notice me.

"Say," I said to my source, "isn't that Mel Laird blowing up a balloon over there?"

"Yes," he replied, "the balloon he's blowing up has to do with gas rationing. He tried to float it last week, but it didn't fly."

"So he's going to send it up again?"

"He'll probably try it once more in a different shape and, if it's shot down this time, he'll go on to something else."

"Boy, you have to have a lot of air to blow up one of those balloons," I said.

"Mel does. He probably has floated more trial balloons than anyone in the Ford kitchen cabinet."

"How does he do it?" I asked.

"Well, he meets with the President and they decide what trial balloon Mr. Ford wants to send up.

"Let's say the President is thinking about gas rationing but he doesn't know if the public will go for it. So he tells Laird to send up a balloon and see the reaction. Laird comes down here and starts blowing."

"And then he sends it up?" I asked.

"Not really. He has to sell it to somebody. If he sent it up himself, nobody would take the balloon seriously. So he calls up Evans and Novak and says, 'The President is going to institute gas rationing.'"

"And Evans and Novak buy it?"

"Every time," my source said. "They float it in their column and then we wait for congressional and press reaction. If it's negative, the President orders Ron Nessen to shoot the trial balloon down by denying he has any intention of rationing gas."

"Doesn't Laird get angry after blowing up one of those balloons to see it shot down?"

"Heck, no. He works for the Reader's Digest, and this gives him something to do."

"Isn't that Secretary of the Treasury Bill Simon over there?"

"He's blowing up a trial balloon on an income surtax. He'll probably float it at a chamber of commerce dinner in Chicago tonight."

"Who are all those people sticking pins in the balloon that Simon is blowing up?"

"They're Arthur Burns, Alan Greenspan, Roy Ash and Paul McCracken. When it comes to the economy, all Mr., Ford's economic advisers do is stick pins in each other's trial balloons."

"Are my eyes deceiving me," I said, "or did Henry Kissinger just walk in?"

"Henry's here quite a bit," my source said. "He just floated a balloon last week on getting tough with the oil-producing countries and it landed with a thud. I guess he wants to take some new balloons with him to the Middle East."

"Look," I said excitedly, "there's Sen. Hugh Scott."

"Poor Hugh," my source said. "The Nixon people used him to launch all their trial balloons on Watergate and he's still trying to get back his second wind.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Voice of the People

WASHINGTON — We have been hearing about America from its people. We asked, you may remember for a Bicentennial slogan. The response was spontaneous; tens of thousands of citizens from all walks of life have sent us slogans, phrases and poetry expressing how they feel about their country.

Many have written accompanying letters of testimonial. To read them is to understand that the Watergate horrors, economic uncertainties and other afflictions have not shaken the American faith.

Some with a lifetime behind them have written about the turmoil they have seen. Youths looking ahead have written about the challenge of events. We have heard from aliens about the dreams which brought them to this land. Even a few convicts have responded, with a special poignancy, about the meaning of freedom.

Some have applauded Predsident Ford's attempt to return to the White House a humanity and openness more becoming a free republic. Others have taken issue with the President over his decision to pardon Richard Nixon and thus suffocate the legal process to its crib. They reject the idea that the country would be better served by amnesia than by truth.

We received one slogan from an authentic American pioneer, 98- year- old Jesse L. Hall, who was born in the centennial year of 1876. He has spent his long life pushing westwards. He lived through the blizzard of 1887 in a homemade muslin tent on the Nebraska prairie. In Wyoming, he was elected to the state legislature. Now he abides in Reno, Nev.

He summed up his view of America in a simple, three-word slogan: "The Republic Stands."

From cell C-8 in the Florida state penitentiary, Raiford, Fla., Willie Young wrote: "Need I say, my life has been a miserable road to travel. After years of walking it alone, I discovered one must believe in something."

He put his sentiments into these words: "A Country not made by Hand but by the Grace of God and the Will of Man."

There were other poetic responses. "We may stumble but never fall; Down through the years, we still stand tall," wrote Raymond Richardson from Chicago.

A Boalsburg, Pa., teacher, Ruth H. Carter, felt "an extreme need for the children to know their country's heritage." She suggested this slogan: "So the Children Will Know."

In Toledo, Ohio, the second and third grade students at Lincolnshire School composed a slogan together: "I work for Democracy because it works for me."

Many other children sent in slogans. For instance, a 12- year- old Forest Heights, Md., girl, Mary Elizabeth Henry, proposed: "America, a Homesteaded Heart." And 14- year- old Penny Chandler of Fresno, Calif., sent in this one: "Two Hundred Steps -- and More to Come."

Teen-agers, too, responded by the hundreds. From Annapolis, Md., 18- year- old James P. Gough told of his frustration over "recent acts by men in high places." Yet he could still offer two heartfelt slogans: "America, a Theme that is Timeless" and "America, Something Warm that Touched my Heart."

A 19- year- old, Johnny Carter of Long Beach, Calif., suggested this sign be posted across America: "Conquerors and Corruptors Beware. This Nation is the Property of the People."

And a Wilmington, N.C., high school student, Stewart Moshe, submitted this slogan: "There's No Way like the American Way."

From John Lauria of Jacksonville, Fla., we received a simple, sincere motto: "America, Where People are Happy." He added meaningrully: "I should know. I came here in 1903."

Here are a few other offerings selected at random from our mailbag:

Florence A. Tracy Revelle, Ardmore, Okla. -- "Pride in our past; Faith in our future; Forward America."

George Kelly, Philadelphia, Pa. -- "Here Lives a Free People, 1776-1976."

Joseph P. McGoldrick, Jackson Heights, N.Y. -- "In America, there are no impossible dreams."

John Klunck, Sheboygan, Wis. -- "If we can't get to Heaven, we'll settle for America."

Jim Felton, Little Rock, Ark. -- "America is coming of Age."

J. K. Smith, Salt Lake City, Utah -- "Freedom: 1776, 1976, Forever."

Evelyn Conley, Pittsburgh, Pa. -- "USA: Undaunted Stands America."

Ross Doty, Spokane, Wash. -- "America, My Country: May She Ever Hold High the Torch of Freedom."

Meanwhile, our search for a Bicentennial slogan continues.

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

New 'Kennedy' Star? Labor Sees Cong. Carey Smashing Rocky's Machine; Set For '76 National Ticket

NEW YORK -- All political contests are equal -- but this seasons the New York gubernatorial race is more equal than the others, it seems to me. A Kennedy star is being born. For the nation he's one of the obscure, but if the polls are right in giving him an ocean- sized "margin," he'll be a national name talked of for the 1976 Democratic presidential ticket.

He's 55- year- old Congressman Hugh Carey, ex-infantryman, Bronze Star and French Croix de Guerre winner for slogging it all over Western Europe under Nazi fire in the big one. Already labor's inner circle sees him as the replacement for "Ted" nationally as the Irish Catholic Kennedy image --" in the second slot at least, with a Jackson, a Mondale or a Bentsen."

The labor strategists, COPE's strongest men, see "Hughie" smashing incumbent Gov. Malcom Wilson to a political pulp. This would destroy what's left of Nelson Rockefeller's home- based machine.

One needs no Nick the Greek to bolster the labor leaders' confidence. Some polls have shown Carey 25 per cent -- and more -- ahead of Gov. Wilson. If the final count reflects this it will be a dramatic and traumatic throwback to the old Jack Kennedy- labor- Catholic 1960 presidential victory.

Not only would it kick the props out from under ex-Governor Rockefeller (who depended for victories on little-known coalitions with liberal and regular machine Democrats) but it could dispatch Sen. Jack Javits back to Cuba as a paying tourist who once was a U.S. Senator.

If the labor chiefs are right -- and they 're now putting their best money, best manpower and best political minds on the line with AFL-CIO President George Meany's quiet support -- there will be a straight Democratic victory. This could defeat the Republican liberal Sen. Javits. It would take some doing, but it just might happen.

Meany dislikes Javits, who never has lost. The AFL-CIO chief told him in effect recently that he (Meany) was not proud of the fashion in which Javits sat at the feet of Castro when the Cuban dictator attacked the U.S. in a characteristically wild speech.

"You should have taken the first plane home," Meany snapped at Javits.

Further, Meany also is furious with the Senator for "attempting to bribe" the Soviets with favorable trade concessions in exchange for the annual release of 60,000 Jewish folk when the U.S.S.R. is bound to permit open emigration under its United Nations charter signature. So Javits won't have much labor outpouring. In name, yes, in logistics, no.

It will all go to Hugh Carey, who would have been out front years ago were it not for some heartbreaking personal tragedies. Now the Congressman from New York's 15th congressional district is in it all the way. He's back to the fighting tone of 1960 when he hooked his career to Jack Kennedy. And to 1964 when he plunged in to help Bobby Kennedy with the New York Senate race. He is, of course, Catholic. He has long been "in the family." He sees some of the clan often and is intimate with several of them. Thus, should he "win big," say the labor chiefs, Carey will be the natural replacement of Ted Kennedy's image on the 1976 national ticket.

Should he beat Rockefeller's protege, incumbent Gov. Wilson and his money, Carey would become a powerful governor. And a power in the Democratic party. That would settle much of the inner feuding. It would blend the reasonable left with the regular "right" and labor chiefs. It would swing Al Barkan's COPE back into the official party structure. It would provide just the antidote to political suicide the party needs before its mini-convention in Kansas City -- billed as the greatest political mayhem match in history. Or at least since the '68 Chicago convention.

In the pragmatic, hard-nosed politicians' language, he would balance out the ticket and neutralize Catholic resentment against those who forced Ted Kennedy into an "early decision" (the full story of which I believe hasn't yet been told).

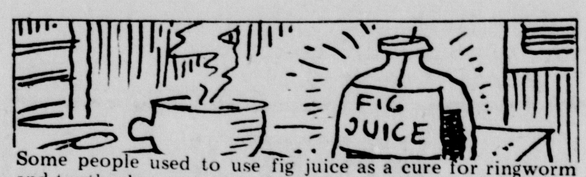
Hugh Carey would provide the party's presidential frontrunners with just the balance they need, say the inner sanctum labor chiefs.

Washington state's Sen. Scoop Jackson needs the liberal Northeast establishment -- so badly, in fact, that he took time out of his foray in New Hampshire the other day to stump in Massachussetts with Father Robert Drinan, the Boston suburban Congressman.

Minnesota's Walter "Fritz" Mondale certainly needs surfacing with a Northeasterner -- especially with the Kennedy charisma. Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who already has been conferring with New York publicists, is not unmindful of what Lyndon Johnson used to call the Austin- Boston Axis whenever we talked of the Kennedys.

Thus, reckon the labor men, who better than ex- Mayor Hugh Leo Carey? There is, of course, the Catholic governor of Ohio, John Gilligan. But he's alienated Meany and others by breaching one cardinal rule – he intervened in labor politics against the Ohio state AFL-CIO labor federation ex- president and COPE chief Frank King who was ousted by a Gilligan coalition. There's New Jersey's Gov. Brendan Byrne. But the powerful labor leaders are with Carey.

All this proves the New York gubernatorial campaign is not the usual horse race. As recent history has gone, this could be the making of a President. At least a Vice President.



Some people used to use fig juice as a cure for ringworm and toothache.

Plans made for P'ville telethon

PORTAGEVILLE — Plans are under way for the fourth annual Portageville Lions Club telethon, which will begin at 10 p.m. Nov. 2 and end at 2 a.m. Nov. 3.

The Portageville telethon is held in conjunction with and one week prior to the Paducah, Ky., benefit telethon for crippled children which covers a four- state area.

Last year's Portageville telethon raised $3,109, or almost a dollar per person in Portageville. All money sent to the Paducah telethon from Missouri is distributed back to Missouri for use here.

The actors who perform at the Paducah telethon donate their time, but a percentage of the gross proceeds are paid to the Actors Guild. All money received in advance pledges goes on an advance pledge card, from which no expenses are taken.

Delta Video Cable in Portageville will televise the local event. Any person with talent of any kind who would like to perform for this worthy cause may contact Mrs. Jerry Mayo at her home, 410 W. 12th St., or by calling phone number 379-3374.

Mrs. Mayo stresses that the Portageville telethon would not have been the success it has been in the past if it were not for the young people in Portageville who involve themselves by setting up roadblocks, canvassing from door to door and picking up contributions when someone calls in a pledge.

The Easter Seal Society would like to establish a center in the Bootheel area, which could become a reality if enough money is raised, and is reportedly trying to find a suitable building.

The Easter Seal Society not only helps crippled children, but they also help the blind and other handicapped people by providing wheel chairs, hospital beds, walking canes and many other services.

Mississippi tour to be televised

NEW MADRID — A half-hour documentary film of the 1974 Mississippi River raft tour by the Otrabanda Company, a professional theater troupe from Yellow Springs, Ohio, is scheduled to be televised Sunday at 10 a.m. central daylight time on Columbia Broadcasting System affiliates as part of the Camera Three series.

The theater group, sponsored by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, gave a free public performance of the "River Raft Revue" in New Madrid on July 4 and plans to return next summer.

The river tour originated in St. Louis on June 15 and ended Aug. 21 in New Orleans. Otrabanda performed in 30 towns and prisons along the river, including Cape Girardeau, Commerce, Cairo, Ill., Hickman, Ky., Tiptonville, Tenn., and Caruthersville.

School psychologist talks to Lions Club

A problem child cannot be treated in isolation, then sent back into the world; he can't be separated from his environment, Gloria Dible, school psychologist, told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday at its noon meeting in the Travelodge Restaurant.

Mrs. Dible spends three days each week in Sikeston schools and one day each in Charleston and East Prairie. The position of school psychologist was created this year.

Mrs. Dible said she is mainly concerned with the child who can't adjust to his surroundings.

Many children with special problems have not been given proper help in the past, she said, so the school hired a psychologist.

We don't work any miracles, she said, adding that not all treatments succeed.

She said she tries to identify problem children in the lower grades because, by the time they get to high school, their behavioral patterns are set.

Mrs. Dible said national statistics show that 10 per cent of all children have emotional problems, with three per cent having severe problems. She had no specific figures for the Sikeston school district.

Sikeston woman to earn degree at home

COLUMBIA — Mrs. Eugene Streetman of 304 Kennedy Drive, Sikeston, participated in a Stephens College University Without Walls common seminar Sept. 15-27 on the Stephens campus in Columbia.

University Without Walls (UWW) offers men and women opportunity to work toward a bachelor of arts degree from Stephens while continuing to live and work in their own communities.

Academic credit is granted for past and present learning experiences derived from career responsibilities, volunteer activities, apprenticeships and other training programs and credits earned from other colleges, universities and vocational schools.

All students entering UWW are required to participate in a common seminar in which students are reacquainted with traditional methods of learning, such as library research, and are introduced to the techniques of setting up independent studies in their home communities or places of employment.

Faculty advisers and career counselors help students define their personal and educational goals, then develop plans for reaching those goals. Students are encouraged to consult professionals in their own communities as resources for learning.

Mrs. Eugene Streetman

Students tailor- make their own plans of study to suit their individual needs.

Mrs. Streetman is coordinator of the practical nursing program in the Sikeston Public Schools. As an independent study in UWW, she plans to evaluate the nursing program's testing and evaluation procedures by comparing test items to the behavioral objectives and student responses.

This alternative approach to higher education was created by a 20- member Union of Experimenting Colleges and Universities in 1970. Stephens, a founding member of the union, initiated the University Without Walls on its campus in 1971-72. Member colleges and universities have adapted their own UWW programs on the basic premises of the external degree.

Registration is still open for three seminars -- Oct. 13-25, Jan. 12-24 and May 18-30.

Anyone interested in enrolling in UWW should contact Dr. James Waddell, director of UWW, Box 2005, Stephens College, Columbia, Mo. 65201, or phone 314-442-2211, extension 467.

At Stephens, an undergraduate women's college, students prepare for careers and/or graduate study while obtaining a liberal and fine arts education for life-long learning.

BLOOMFIELD — Peggy D. Eshelman of Sikeston has been appointed a youth specialist for the university of Missouri Extension Division program in the six-county Bootheel area.

The new specialist and her husband, Ross E. Eshelman, live at 600 Pine St., Sikeston.

Mrs. Eshelman is a native of Augusta, Kan., and is a 1968 graduate of Butler County Junior College at Ed Dorado, Kan. Mrs. Eshelman will be working with four other extension youth specialists in providing leadership training to youth and adult volunteers in the Bootheel Area.

The four- campus University of Missouri and Lincoln University, the state's other land grant institution, provide extension programs not only in youth development, but in agriculture, family living, community development, and continuing education as well.

Weapon stockpiles dangerous

By SEN. STUART SYMINGTO

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The proliferation of nuclear weapons could be the most critical problem facing the world in the next few years; and unless we handle this problem, it will handle us. One miscalculation, one sudden terrorist activity, one paranoid leader could set the spark to a world wide nuclear holocaust.

There are now six nations which have detonated nuclear weapons or devices: the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, the People's Republic of China and India. France and the People's Republic of China continue to test nuclear weapons in the atmosphere.

The problem before the world today is whether this obviously dangerous trend toward further expansion of the "nuclear club" will continue.

Because of my concern about the lack of public knowledge about the great and growing danger of nuclear proliferation, I asked retired Rear Admiral Gene R. La Rocque, a highly decorated former military commander with considerable experience also in the field of arms control, to testify in open hearing before the Joint Atomic Energy Military Applications Subcommittee of which I am Chairman.

At my request Admiral La Rocque discussed the data which the Center for Defense Information, of which he is director, had compiled on the nuclear stockpiles of the two superpowers.

Brought out in the Admiral's testimony and included in the printed hearing are the following facts:

(1) The United States stockpile of strategic and tactical nuclear weapons is equivalent to 615,385 Hiroshima bombs. The Hiroshima bomb had the blast of 13,000 tons of TNT and immediately killed 85,000 to 100,000 people.

(2) The United States currently has enough strategic nuclear weapons to hit every Soviety city of over 100,000 people with 36 separate nuclear weapons. The Soviet Union has 11 strategic nuclear weapons for each U. S. city over 100,000.

(3) In the past two years, since the SALT agreement in 1972, the United States has been adding about four nuclear weapons each day of the year; whereas the Soviets are adding about one nuclear weapon per day.

With respect to the proliferation of United States nuclear weapons around the world, I called attention at the hearing to the fact that it is no longer a secret we have nuclear weapons in Greece and Turkey; also that, although the American people may not know it, it is no secret to the people of Korea that the U. S. has nuclear weapons on their soil.

Let us hope that all nations, large and small, will be able to see the scope, the very magnitude of this problem, because such public knowledge could lead to small but significant steps away from this brink of world disaster.

Area woman is delegate to meeting

CHARLESTON — Mrs. Carl Darnell, chairman of the Mother's March of Dimes for Charleston, attended the March of Dimes Regional Conference in Omaha, Neb., Oct. 3 and 4.

The two- day meeting was filled with various workshops and lectures to acquaint chairmen and volunteers with the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Darnell stated, after the conference, that the main emphasis in Mississippi County should be on the education of expectant mothers so that they wouldn't bear low weight babies.

Others who attended from this area were Mrs. Louise Smith, Scott City, and Shirley Sullings, Sikeston, both from the SEMO area chapter.

25 YEARS AGO

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-five years ago (Sept. 24, 1949), John Pont was a sophomore halfback at Miami, Ohio. He fumbled the season's opening kickoff on the four-yard line, retrieved the ball in the end zone, then ran for a 96-yard touchdown in a 23 to 6 victory over Wichita.

The victory also marked the first major college win for then new Miami coach, Woody Hayes, now the veteran Ohio State coach.

U. S. Navy marks 199th birthday

Early in October 1775, British warships descended upon American shores and burned the fishing village of Falmouth, Maine. The Continental Congress reacted with shock and authorized the acquisition and construction of ships for the Continental Navy. This action was the first naval legislation, and the genesis of the U.S. Navy.

Actually, the first American sea battle had already taken place off the coast of Machias, Maine.

In May 1775 when the British sent two sloops and an armed schooner to commandeer a load of lumber, they met instead a lumberman named O'Brien and his 40-odd loggers who were waiting on the wharf brandishing muskets, axes and pitchforks.

The British, with their well-armed ships, found this funny and turned their backs on the lumberjacks. That only irritated O'Brien and his boys into climbing aboard a lumber sloop and giving chase.

The loggers, swinging axes, rifle butts and pitchforks, swarmed aboard the English craft like timber wolves and down came the British. Within two months, O'Brien had captured three more British warships. He later became one of the Continental Navy's first officers.

In the first six months of the Revolutionary War, American naval vessels -- outnumbered by 75 warships and 2,244 guns -- captured 342 British warships and merchant ships. At its peak in 1780, the colonial U. S. Navy had 27 ships averaging 20 guns each. British naval strength at the end of the war was 469 warships, 174 of them mounting 60 to 150 guns each. And yet, in the end, the American mosquito fleet captured British cargo valued at some $600,000.

This year's 199th Navy birthday is being observed with the theme "Navy Birthday -- A Proud Tradition." The theme was selected to permit fleet and shore commands to explore and honor the historic contributions of all members of the Navy family.

In his special Navy birthday message, the Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. James Holloway III, said "Navy Birthday 1974 is both a celebration of the Navy's commitment to its own people and a pledge of continued commitment to the people of our nation.

"It is also a time of reflection and expectation as we pause to honor the Navy's tradition-makers of the past and present and dedicate ourselves, in a spirit of comaraderie and unity, to the tradition- makers of the future."

Probe continues into Hearnes administration

KANSAS CITY (AP) Delton Houtchens, former chairman of the Democratic Party in Missouri, did not seek out a spot on the board of directors in a bank in his hometown of Clinton, but was asked to join, the bank's former president has testified.

Adrain Craigmiles of Rich Hill, Mo., appeared before a federal grand jury Wednesday and testified he sought out Houtchens about joining the board of the First National Bank of Clinton while Houtchens had his party post.

The grand jury is investigating possible corruption in the administration of former gGov. Warren E. Hearnes. Houtchens was state party chairman the eight years Hearnes was governor.

The First National Bank of Clinton began receiving interest-free intangible tax deposits on April 3, 1968 with a deposit of $100,000 and received two similar deposits the following year.

Records at the state revenue department in Jefferson City show four more deposits of between $200,000 and $300,000 were received in 1971 and 1972. The records also reflect a deposit of $750,000 on April 19, 1972.

State law was changed in 1970 so such deposits were no longer interest-free, but they did draw lower than average interest.

Craigmiles was subpoenaed to bring records relating to the disposition of 67 shares of stock in the bank to Houtchens.

After testifying, Craigmiles told reporters only 10 shares of stock were involved, it did not take place in 1969 and Houtchens paid for the stock.

Craigmiles, who said he left the banking business in 1970, said Houtchens was paid $100 a month as a member of the bank's board.

Ann Landers

Kin deprived of treasure

Dear Ann Landers: I was stopped cold by the letter from the woman who hated to be photographed because she was overweight. She complained that certain members of her husband's family were very sneaky. They snapped candids of her from the worst possible angles at every opportunity.

My husband's mother felt the same way, only it was her nose she was self-conscious about. The dear woman died before I had a chance to meet her. I regret this because I'm sure we would have been very good friends.

The family respected my mother- in- law's wishes, and there's not a single picture of her anywhere. How my grandchildren and I would have treasured a single photograph, but, alas, there is none. -- Say Cheese, Please

Dear Cheese: "Vanity, thy name is woman!" Have you thought of her high school yearbook or relatives who go way back? I'll bet with a little imagination you could dig one up.

Dear Ann Landers: In recent weeks you have printed a number of letters about mothers and daughters who couldn't get along. The psychiatrist you quoted was wrong when he said, "Perhaps if the child showed some concern for the mother, the emotional support might serve as a bridge to help them both." I couldn't disagree more.

My mother and I had fights from the time I could talk until I was 25, which was four years after I married. I bent over backwards to please her but never could. She told me that when I was born she was miserable because I came too soon after my brother. I remember the black- and- blue marks from her fingernails when she pinched me, and the headaches from being slapped on the side of the head. I recall the day she pushed me against the stove because I didn't dry a glass properly.

When I took my dad's advice at 21 and moved out of the house she accused me of thinking I was "too good for the family."

Many years have passed and we get along fairly well now. I had almost forgotten the hell I went through until I read that letter in your column. I don't know what happened to change things. Maybe it was just the passing of time, or perhaps the Lord has dealt with her. Thanks, Ann, for letting me air my feelings .. Been There, Too.

Dear B.T.: If your description of the way your mother treated you is accurate, the woman was mentally ill. Perhaps your relationship improved when she regained her mental health. Consider that possibility, please.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the mother who was distraught because her daughter's illness was diagnosed as epilepsy. My reaction was quite different. I said, "Is that all? Thank god! I was afraid her life was in danger."

The neurologist told us to "let everyone know -- friends, family, schoolmates, teachers -- so they can help."

It was good advice. Being open has been much better for our daughter, too. She is not ashamed the way some epileptics are.

I have discovered that people can be wonderfully understanding if you give them a chance. Of course, there will always be those who are ignorant and thoughtless, but they should be pitied, not scorned.

Our daughter is living a normal life because she is a normal girl. The only difference between her and her non- epileptic friends is that she is on medication. -- There Now

Dear There: Your attitude is healthy and sensible. I hope it will help others to see their way more clearly. Thanks for writing.

Commission works for Bootheel

By MARK GEERS

MALDEN — "This is just about our busiest time of the year," says Philip Shelton, director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission. "All of the area's prospective programs must be submitted to the federal agencies being asked for funding between now and about Jan. 1."

This enables the federal agencies to meet their own July 1 fiscal year deadline.

The planning commission has been working on the applications most of the year, but it always seems there is some unfinished business that must be taken care of right up to the deadline. And because of the nature of the commission's role in area program planning, most of the last-minute worries fall to Shelton and his staff.

The Bootheel Regional Planning Commission (BRPC) and the Bootheel Economic Development Council (BEDC) serve jointly as advisory commissions, reviewing requests for state and federal funds from governmental bodies in the Bootheel area.

Any governmental unit, a town, a county, a water district, or whatever must channel its applications for funds through these bodies.

"The commissions have appointed a special committee, the A-95 PNRS (Project Notification and Review System) Committee, to handle all funding applications," Shelton said.

The process is complicated, but, as Shelton explains it, "Requests from governmental bodies for funding are sent to the A-95 Committee where they are studied to make sure they meet several criteria. The requests must be for projects of real value to area residents; the projects must be economically 'lean' and avoid waste, the requests must avoid duplication of funding and the projects must avoid duplication of effort."

After a request for funding has satisfied these criteria, the A-95 Committee will recommend endorsement of the request by the commission as a whole.

Normally, the commission will endorse noncontroversial funding requests with only a minimum of debate.

One observer explained it this way: "Most federal money goes to the urban areas -- St. Louis, Jackson County, and so on. The little money that does trickle down into our area is needed badly.

"Very few members of the commission are ready to vote against any area project, whether it is for their town or not. All of them feel they have to stick together to keep what little they are getting."

After the BRPC and BEDC have endorsed a funding request, and after the staff of the commission has prepared all the documents and blueprints necessary to complete the formal request, it is sent to the state clearing house in Jefferson City.

Here again, Shelton said, "All the requests are subjected to intensive study to make sure that there is no duplication of effort anywhere along the line."

From the state clearing house, the formal requests are sent on to the federal agencies being asked for funding.

But that is not the end of the process. "Sometime after the first of the year, the agency will contact us," Shelton stated.

"They'll let us know how the request for funding impressed them, and if they are interested in the project, they'll say something like this: 'We are interested in doing this kind of project this year, but we need to know which of the many requests we got from your area are the most worthwhile because we only have X number of dollars to spend, and we can't do them all.' "

This is the most delicate part of the commission staff's job. When the requests come back from the federal agency, the staff must return the applications to the A-95 Committee for an assignment of priorities.

Needless to say, someone's project is going to lose out at this point because the federal agency doesn't have money for everything. Those whose projects are slighted at this point may scream "unfair," but Shelton does not agree.

"The priority ratings take into account the number of people a project will serve, the area's need for the project in question, past projects an area has received, and also the needs of the other communities. The agency funding the project usually wants to spend the money where it will do the most good for the most people," he said.

Many people misunderstand the BRPC staff's role in this process. "We don't make those priority decisions," Shelton remarked. "Actually, our function is to produce and consolidate the plans for development by the various governmental units in the area into one master regional development plan.

"Our work is funded by eight or 10 federal agencies and by any number of local units because we provide services for all of them under a contract basis," he said.

The commission's A-95 Committee, which actually does assign the priorities to area funding requests, is made up of representatives from each of the six counties in the Bootheel region.

The members of the A-95 Committee are:

Lloyd Hogan of East Prairie, the committee chairman who represents Mississippi County; Dr. Harry Goddard of Kennett, who represents Dunklin County; Judge John Calvin of Sikeston Route Three, who represents New Madrid County; Judge D. J. Meredith Jr. of Caruthersville, representing Pemiscot County; Mayor L. F. Wheeler of Miner, who represents Scott County; and Mayor R. B. Woods of Bernie, representing Stoddard County.

Hundreds of programs funded by 14 different federal agencies are channeled through this A-95 Committee or the thousands of A-95 Committees like it in the rest of the country.

Some examples of the diverse programs they review can be found in the funding requests they endorsed at their last meeting, which was held Sept. 19 at the BRPC offices in the Malden Industrial Park.

Applications for funding reviewed by the A-95 Committee at that meeting included:

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Head Start Program is requesting funding from the Office of Child Development in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The DAEOC Head Start program operates in six Bootheel counties and benefits 1,300 children of low- income families.

The program, which provides medical, educational, nutritional and social services for children and parents of low- income families, is seeking a continuation of previous grants. The amount requested this year is $1,146,553 in federal money and $323,045 in local money for a $1,469,598 total.

The park consists of a lake, earth impoundment, trails and a picnic area, and is located one mile north of Morley between state Highway 77 and U.S. Highway 61.

The city of Dexter is requesting $40,000 in federal funds, to be matched by an equal amount of local funds and private donations, for the acquisition of eight acres of land for a city park.

The Pemiscot County Court also is requesting $75,000 in federal funds, to be matched by an equal amount of local money, for the acquisition and development of 195 acres of lake area and land into a county recreational park. The project will include an area that has been developed into a lake due to a borrow pit left by construction of Interstates 55 and 155.

What's the law?

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ella met Alberto at a party and immediately succumbed to his Latin charm. While he was an alien, she quickly discovered that he wasn't alien to the ways of love. In fact, he was so good at it she married him a short time later. What she didn't know, however, was that during all the cooing, she was the pigeon.

Subsequent to their marriage, Ella discovered that Alberto had married her just to avoid deportation. She discovered this when he was arrested on charges of consipiracy to defraud the United States government by marrying a citizen to obtain legal residence in the U.S.

Nevertheless, Ella was more concerned with retaining her Latin Lover than his motives in having married her.

"If I'm not complaining," she insisted in court, "why should it bother anybody else?"

"Since he didn't seriously intend to be married," was the answer. "He only intended not to be deported. He deceitfully tricked you and everybody else entering into what amounted to an invalid marriage."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Alberto of conspiring to deceive his willing pigeon?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while Alberto may not have taken his marriage seriously, Ella did. In fact, noted the judge, she was real tickled about it. Consequently, concluded the judge, since it takes two to conspire and Ella was not a conspirator, there was no conspiracy and Alberto couldn't be convicted.

Dr. Lamb

Testicle problem needs repair

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 7-year old grandson has an undescended testicle. His doctor says it will have to be surgically descended into the scrotum and that it should be done by the time he is 8 years old. Further, he says that normal development depends upon both testicles being in place in the scrotum.

My question is, in what way is normal development affected? What would be likely to happen if nothing were done about this? Is this a common situation among boy babies? If so, I wonder about the countless ones whose parents cannot afford surgery?

DEAR READER - Most doctors agree something should be done about the problem before puberty gets very far along, so doing it by age 8 is quite reasonable. Some boys can be treated by hormones at an early age, but this should not delay surgical correction if the boy is approaching puberty. That is why your doctor wants it done by age 8.

In the undescended testicle the part that forms sperm cells will degenerate and will not produce any live sperm cells for reproduction. The cells that produce male hormone, though, still function. If both testicles are undescended then the male may have a normal male personality and appearance, but he will be sterile. With one normal testicle producing sperm, though, he may still be able to father children.

This condition is rare, occurring in only about one in 200 male babies. Many of these will have a spontaneous descent in the first year of life. After that most of them won't descend unless corrected. And, there is an increased risk of cancer of the undescended testicle if it is not corrected. This is a small risk but, nevertheless, an additional consideration.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is the difference between stilbesterol and estrogen? Are they both hormones?

DEAR READER — Actually the body forms several different but chemically similar hormones that are estrogens. Substances that have the same or similar actions on the body can occur in nature. They can be obtained from petroleum, peat, lignite and even pussywillow. Estrogenic substances have even been found in the mud at the bottom of the Dead Sea.

In 1938 a synthetic substance was introduced called diethylstilbesterol, better known as stilbesterol. It is made in the laboratory. It is chemically different from estrogen but has the same effects. Today this drug is used primarily to treat menopause symptoms.

One very important difference is that stilbesterol can be taken in tablet form by mouth. Real estrogen hormones cannot. They are destroyed by the digestive action. So, you can see why stilbesterol has become so popular, you don't have to have an injection to get results.

There are two main hormones (or groups of hormones) produced by the ovaries, the estrogens and progesterone. The estrogens dominate the first part of the menstrual cycle, and the progesterones the latter part. The body uses two carbon units from any of your food and changes it to cholesterol, chiefly in the liver. Cholesterol is converted to progesterone. And, progesterone is converted to testosterone (male hormone) on the way to forming the estrogen group. So, it isn't surprising that males and females have both estrogen and testosterone.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on impotence, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Impotence" booklet.

Chairman blasts proposal

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A proposal to limit the number of bills each legislator can submit for consideration has been blasted by the state's Democratic chairman as unconstitutional.

"The choking off of bills could be a violtion of the first amendment—freedom of speech," said Jim Spain Tuesday in reference to Republican state Sen. William Esely's proposal to limit representatives to three bills each and senators to six.

The Bethany senator, who faces state Rep. Hardin Cox of Rock Port in the general election, claimed such a measure would cut back on paperwork and bills introduced only for publicity value.

But in addition to calling the measure unconstitutional, Spain said it would be "certainly an open invitation to under-thetable payoffs" because "unscrupulous legislators" would sell their bills at high prices to special interest groups seeking consideration of legislation.

Some 1,200 bills were intoroduced during this year's legislative session, but fewer than 200 were given final action.

Cox, pointing to the uneasy economic situation that faces the state, called for a 90-day moritorium on spending for new or previously unfunded programs so solutions to inflation can be worked on.

The programs would not be wiped out, Cox emphasized, but only delayed to give the legislature time to "formulate workage solutions to the problems facing Missouri's economy."

There are excursions into jazz and blues among them. Alan Douglas, who produced the sessions, is putting the albums together. He also has received word from Warner Brothers that it will withdraw the three albums it put out after Hendrix died in 1970 and rerelease the best material from them on one album, as the original plan had been.

Williamson charged in murder

DONIPHAN — Raymond Williamson, 57, of Doniphan is being held without bond by Ripley County authorities on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of an elderly Doniphan man.

The body of Clarence Farmer, 71, was found in an abandoned cistern by William Cates of Belleville. Ill., on a farm Cates had recently purchased from Williamson.

The Ripley County sheriff's department said the killing apparently took place between June 17 and 21 while Farmer was staying with Williamson and his wife.

A lie detector test was administered to Williamson Tuesday night, and a spokesman for the sheriff's office said "he flunked."

After the test Williamson admitted shooting Farmer with a .22- caliber pistol, the sheriff's spokesman said. Williamson claimed the shooting was in self- defense.

Reports from the sheriff's office indicate Farmer and Williamson had frequently argued in the past.

Ripley County Coroner Howard Jackson said Farmer has no immediate survivors and no relatives have been located.

A preliminary hearing for Williamson is tentatively set for Oct. 21 in Magistrate Court.

State tries to give housing a shot in arm

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State officials have begun to move in two different directions in an effort to give Missouri's sagging home-buying industry a shot in the arm.

The Missouri Housing Development Commission, in a special session Wednesday, took the final official steps toward the sale of $25 million in general mortgage purchase bonds, the first such bonds to be issued by the state.

The bonds, to be sold Oct. 29 in Kansas City, will provide the commission with funds to purchase home loan mortgages on new or existing houses after they have been made by conventional mortgage bankers.

Although commission Director William Moore said the bonding plan is not meant to circumvent the state's 8 per cent ceiling on interest rates, which many claim has nearly dried up the home-buying market, he acknowledged that the influx of the additional money will definitely help to ease the usury rate problem.

The commission's actions came only hours after state consumer affairs chief Alfred Sikes, who had been directed by the governor to investigate the 8 per cent limit, said he had recommended the ceiling be lifted entirely on initial home mortgage loans.

Citing the 41 per cent decline in residential construction contracts in Missouri for the first seven months of this year, Sikes said in his report to Gov. Christopher S. Bond, "It is clear that our 8 per cent usury ceiling is compounding an already difficult situation."

Removal of the ceiling on home loans coupled with the recommendations of President Ford to revive the home-building industry would create an infusion of significant amounts of money into the state's homebuying market, Sikes said.

Revision of the usury law, which failed to come to a final vote this year in the legislature, would have to be done by legislative action. Gov. Bond has been urged to recall the House and Senate into special session to handle the problem, but has not indicated publically that he will.

Under the Housing Deveopment Commission's bond program, 18 Missouri-based mortgage bankers would receive and process loan applications and then sell the mortgages to the commission in packages of $250,000 or more.

Mercantile Trust Co., of St. Louis was named trustee and principal paying agent for the plan while the United Missouri Bank was chosen as depository for the bond funds.

but after that length of time, it's ridiculous," he said.

Golightly said he remembers one occasion when railroad employes were arrested for such a violation, but the police judge, who also was a railroad employe, dismissed the case.

Before the incident of parking his car on the railroad track, Golightly said he had asked Chaffee police to check into the situation, but they had replied that they couldn't do anything about it.

According to Police Chief Jimmy Dale Coats, he thinks Golightly just had a gripe with Frisco.

"We were going to haul the car away until Golightly saw we meant business and moved his car," Coats stated.

When trains hold up traffic, Coats said it does present a hazard for the city and that he plans to see what he can do to improve the situation

Sometime after 11 a.m. on Sept. 8, Mrs. Garrison's body was found by her 13 - year - old daughter by a previous marriage in the upstairs bedroom of their home in Kennett.

Mrs. Garrison had been severely beaten and shot once in the head with a small caliber revolver.

A trail of blood leading from Mrs. Garrison's bedroom through a bathroom, down a hall and a flight of steps, over a four-foot fence and then over an eight- foot fence was left by the assailant.

A surgeon's plastic glove and a handle grip to a pistol were found outside the home. Both items bore a considerable amount of blood. This blood and the blood from the assailant's trail allegedly match the doctor's blood type, O positive.

A "bloody fingerprint" was found on the top rail of the tall fence around the Garrison yard. The print was lifted, according to Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott, by the usual method: "dusting it, taping it and putting it on the card."

After Dunklin County authorities received a set of fingerprints taken from Dr. Garrison in Mississippi by the Federal Bureau of Investigation following his arrest on a warrant charging him with flight to avoid prosecution, they allegedly found one to match the print lifted from the fence.

The autopsy report, which Baker has refused to release, reportedly gives the time of death as between approximately 8 and 9 a.m. the morning of Sept. 8.

Several statements from persons, who were told by Mrs. Garrison of alleged threats against her by the doctor, were expected to be introduced.

Dunklin County authorities have hinted they have other evidence to link the doctor with the crime, and it was learned earlier this week that authorities have located a car matching one described by witnesses as being seen at Mrs. Garrison's residence at the time of the crime.

It was also learned that a coffee pot was found plugged in when officers investigated the crime.

To counter the prosecution charges, defense attorneys have compiled the following information:

--A notarized affidavit from Ronald Windsor, the Alcorn County, Miss., prosecuting attorney, who stated that the doctor arrived at his houseboat at approximately 8:30 p.m. Sept. 7 at Pickwick Lake in Tishomingo County, Miss.

The affidavit further states that Dr. Garrison went to bed about 9 p.m., following a day of National Guard duty. Windsor also stated that the doctor slept on the top berth of a bunk bed while Windsor occupied the lower berth.

Windsor related that he saw the doctor sleeping at 11 p.m. when he retired, then about 3 a.m. when he got up to get some medicine for a sore throat and again at about 6:30 or 7 a.m. when he awakened on Sept. 8.

The affidavit states that Dr. Garrison did not awaken until about 8 a.m., and that he did not leave the houseboat vicinity until approximately 2:30 or 3 p.m. that afternoon.

--The defense planned to submit Dr. Garrison's affidavit accounting for his whereabouts from 8 a.m. Sept. 7 until 3:30 p.m. Sept. 8.

--Defense attorney also were to submit results of a lie detector test administered to Dr. Garrison on Sept. 21 which indicate the doctor was truthful in denying any participation or complicity in the murder of his former wife.

--Garrison's lawyers were to present a letter from Edwin B. Coleman of the Mississippi First Judicial District Attorney's office. The letter states that Coleman and an investigator for the Mississippi Highway Patrol met with Sgt. Donald Shelton of the Missouri State Highway Patrol and Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 10.

At that time, Scott and Shelton told him that blood allegedly left by the assailant outside the Garrison home was type B blood. They further stated that Missouri authorities had checked Dr. Garrison's service records and found that his blood was type O positive.

Shelton also stated, according to Coleman, that a station wagon was seen behind the Garrison home at about 8 a.m. (the approximate time of death) on the morning Mrs. Garrison was found dead. The occupant of the vehicle was later traced to a hospital in Memphis where he was treated for a black eye and considerable scratches on his person.

--Garrison's attorneys had evidence to the effect that Dr. Garrison was found to be without cuts or wounds of any kind at the time of his arrest by the FBI. Pictures of the doctor were taken at the lawyer's request to verify this fact.

--Daily Standard investigators obtained statements from neighbors of the Garrisons that the Garrison's dog was disturbed by either a prowler or an unfamiliar visitor at 12:30 a.m. the night before Mrs. Garrison's body was found.

--Mrs. Garrison arrived home at about 1:30 a.m. She reportedly called her date of the evening at a bar in Portageville at 1:40 to assure him that she had arrived home safely.

--The summary of the autopsy report, which had been kept secret by Prosecutor Baker, stated: "The fatal wound was determined to be the gunshot which partly severed the midbrain. The entrance wound was at the left temporal occipital region with a powder burn around the entrance wound.

The body temperature was 33.6 degrees Centigrade at 1:30 p.m. One hour later the temperature was 33 degrees. Allowing for some variation, the time of death was estimated to be between 8 and 9 a.m.

In regard to the until now secret autopsy report, Farese stated, "Now I know why Baker didn't want to release it to us. This proves that someone else was with Mrs. Garrison on the night before her body was found.

"The autopsy report is exculpatory evidence," he said, "and the prosecutor must have recognized it as such. When he took his oath of office, he swore to protect the innocent as well as punish the guilty. I think he violated that oath by deliberately withholding from us evidence that would clear the doctor."

With the assistance of The Daily Standard's reporters, Farese was able to locate and speak with the two pathologists who performed the autopsy, Dr. Pin H. Pu and Dr. Robert Ahlvin. (Prosecutor Baker had refused to provide the pathologists' names to Farese.

Dodgers want to be best

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's an All-California World Series for the first time, and Steve Garvey said the Los Angeles Dodgers wanted it that way.

"We said collectively that we want to play the best team," said Garvey, hitting star of the Dodgers' 12-1 victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday that gave Los Angeles its first National League pennant in eight years.

"Oakland is the World Series champion and the American League champion again, so we have to beat them if we want to prove we are the best team in baseball."

The Dodgers — behind Garvey's two home runs and two singles, and Don Sutton's masterful pitching — whipped the Pirates Wednesday, winning the series three games to one. The two-time defending World Series champion A's eliminated Baltimore by the same margin in games for the American League crown.

The A's are expected to pitch Ken Holtzman, who blanked Baltimore last Sunday, and Los Angeles will open the series with Andy Messersmith, who beat Pittsburgh Sunday, in Saturday afternoon's game at Dodger Stadium.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston refused to draw a comparison between the Dodgers and A's because he hadn't studied scouting reports. "I don't know much about Oakland," he said.

Alston, whose first pennant came in 1955 when the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first World Series, didn't even want to compare his youthful 1974 team with those of even a decade ago, when Sandy Koufax pitched the Dodgers to a World Series triumph over Minnesota, the last time Los Angeles won it all.

"I'm so proud of this team with so many youngsters going so far as they have. This fella right here (Don Sutton) pitched outstanding ball for us."

Sutton, however, said the Dodgers, with young players in their second or third seasons — Garvey, Ron Cey, Dave Lopes and others — "are starting a dynasty." The 29-year-old pitcher, a rookie in 1966 when LA won its last pennant, said flatly that 1974's is the better team.

The Pirates, who won the NL East title for the fourth time in the last five year, had no qualms about picking the Dodgers to win the World Series.

"I pick the Dodgers," said Manager Danny Murtaugh. "I don't predict the number of games the series will go. I'll root just as hard as any Dodger fan for them in the series. It was a battle for the pennant up to now, and this is now a league vendetta."

"They outhit us, outpitched us and just outplayed us, all the way around," said Pirate center fielder Al Oliver. "They deserve to go to the World Series."

Pirates go quietly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the end the Pittsburgh Pirates went quietly.

They came into the National League playoffs with the league's best batting average at .274 but Dodger pitching held them to .194 in the four games.

Don Sutton, who shut out the Pirates in the series opener, allowed only Willie Stargell's home run Wednesday as the Dodgers beat the Pirates 12-1 and won the NL pennant three games to one.

The Pirates, who thrived on their power during the season, mustered only three hits off Sutton and relief mainstay Mike Marshall, who pitched the final inning and ended the game striking out Richie Hebner.

Sutton had seven strikeouts, getting Stargell swinging twice and Hebner two times.

Al Oliver, the No. 2 batter in the league with a .321 regular season average, was 0-for-3 Wednesday and managed only four hits during the series.

The somber mood of the Pirate locker room contrasted to the rowdy champagne celebration of the Dodgers.

The Pirates finally clinched the NL East championship the final night of the season, coming from behind, and hoped to do the same in the playoffs after getting behind the Dodgers two games to one. Instead, Los Angeles made certain of its first league title in eight years with a 12-hit attack that included two homers by Steve Garvey.

A few reporters gathered around Stargell's locker at the end of the clubhouse and could barely hear him say, "You can't say what you really think and feel" at a time like this.

"It's been a long year."

SMS cross country team to compete in Kentucky

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University's cross country team will return Saturday (Oct. 12) to Bowling Green, Ky., site of a dual meet a couple of weeks ago between the Indians the Western Kentucky University, for the Western Kentucky Invitational.

About eight teams will be entered in the 11 a.m. five-mile run.

Southeast Missouri State Coach Marvin Rosengarten expects his young squad, composed of all freshmen and sophomores, to be able to compete reasonably well against all the entries except Western Kentucky.

The Hilltoppers are one of the favorites to win the NCAA national championship this year, and they easily downed the Indians on Sept. 28. "Western Kentucky is way ahead of everyone," Rosengarten said, "but their coach told me all the other teams are close."

Among the other schools entered in the invitational are Middle Tennessee State University, Austin Peay State University, the University of Louisville, and Fisk University.

Rosengarten considered pulling out of the meet -- "our kids are a little on the tired side" -- but decided to stick with the commitment. After losing a dual meet Saturday to Eastern Illinois University, 22-37, the Indian harriers arrived at practice Monday "raring to go," he explained.

"We did very well against Eastern," said Rosengarten. "I guess I shouldn't say that when you get beat, but after one of our roughest years last year, everything looks good. I never want to go through that again (the Indians won only one meet)."

The fact is all of the Indian harriers posted their best times of the season against Eastern Illinois.

The Tribe's Ed White, a sophomore from Cape Girardeau, danced around the five- mile Capaha Park course in 25:13 to take third. And Randy Henderson, a freshman from St. Charles, put on a spurt over the last 300 yards of the race to take fourth with a time of 25:31.

LOS ANGELES LAKERS

NBA — Pacific Division

1973-74 finish: W 47, L 35 — 1st place

Bill Sharman didn't win the NBA's Coach of the Year Award last season, but he certainly deserved some accolade for getting the Lakers into the playoffs. After the team had suffered two consecutive losses to Golden State late in the season and fallen two games behind the first-place Warriors in the loss column, Sharman salvaged their morale and directed them into the division title. It climaxed a season of major adjustments.

First, there was the defection of Wilt Chamberlain. Then, there was the trade of forward Jim McMillian to Buffalo for center Elmore Smith. After that, forward Connie Hawkins was acquired from Phoenix for swingman Keith Erickson. And finally, there were the injuries that kept superstar Jerry West out more than half the season. Now, with the off-season additions of Cazzie Russell from Golden State and rookie Brian Winters, Los Angeles probably has the best balance and depth of any team in the league.

FORWARDS: Hawkins, renowned for his individuality at Phoenix, became a team player under Sharman, trading his "showboating" tactics for a quieter approach to the game. Only on rare occasions does he lapse into his old style. Russell, who violently dislikes being a "sixth man," can fire in points at an incredibly rapid rate, but his defense leaves something to be desired. Happy Hairston and Bill Bridges are superior rebounders and defensive players, but lack scoring punch. And Kermit Washington is young and promising. Rating: B+.

CENTER: With the last-minute acquisition of Zelmo Beatty from the ABA's Utah Stars, Los Angeles has become the team to beat. Back-up center Elmore Smith blocked more shots than any NBA player last year and began hitting more high percentage shots. But he still had occasional mental lapses. Rating: A.

GUARDS: With West's playing time curtailed to 31 games, Jim Price, in only his second pro season, became a starter and handled it like a veteran. West, probably still the game's finest clutch shooter, will be making his farewell appearance in the NBA this season. If he can avoid injuries, he will rejoin Gail Goodrich in forming the best backcourt in the league. Between them, they averaged better than 50 points per game two seasons ago. They complement each other perfectly. If West gets hurt again, as has been his misfortune so often, Price again will be ready. So will veteran Pat Riley and Winters, an exceptional outside shooter. Rating: A-.

PREDICTION: No team in the league appears capable of matching the Lakers in over-all talent. Other clubs may have more outstanding players, but Los Angeles' well runs deep. It would be a fitting climax to West's illustrious career if the Lakers could win the league championship. First in Pacific.

California teams: 2 distinct groups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horace Greeley said something about young men seeking their fortunes in the West, and the Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland A's did just that.

But when they put the baseball championship of California and the world on the line, it'll be very evident that more than 400 miles separate these teams, their styles, and their people.

Item:

Charley Finley, nattily-attired and overbearing, walks into the Oakland A's dugout before game time and checks Manager Alvin Dark's lineup card. If Finley doesn't like it, he just might order a change or two.

Walter O'Malley, chomping on a big cigar, sits in his private box seat, minding his own business, leaving the running of the Los Angeles Dodgers to Walter Alston, who has had the job for 21 years — all on one-year contracts.

Item:

Vida Blue, the A's pitcher who's been sullen for two years because of his 1972 contract dispute with Finley, is asked if there is any joy in the game of baseball.

"There's joy at payday," says the 25-year-old Blue. "Baseball is just a job."

Dodger pitchers don't talk like that. Dodger players don't act like Oakland players. They don't have clubhouse fights like the A's, whose superstar Reggie Jackson and young outfielder Bill North got into a brawl this year.

The Dodgers are mostly young and hungry athletes — a throwback to Branch Rickey's days in Brooklyn. Their stretchdrive flop last year was blamed on immaturity.

This year, the front office came up with two big needs — a power hitting outfielder and a relief ace in the persons of Jimmy Wynn and Mike Marshall — to go along with such young standouts as Garvey, Ron Cey, Bill Russell, Bill Buckner, Davey Lopes, Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith.

Lohr hopes for victory against UMR Miners

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The last time the University of Missouri -- Rolla defeated Southeast Missouri State University on the gridiron was in 1963. And the Indian victories over the Miners over the last 10 years have, for the most part, been by lopsided scores.

Southeast Missouri State Coach Jim Lohr, in his first year as the Tribe's head man, hopes that "circle won't be broken" as he takes his team into Rolla Saturday (Oct. 12) for a 2 p.m. game at New Jackling Field.

The contest marks the start of the 1974 battle for the MIAA championship. The Indians are the defending champions.

Both teams take 2-2 records into the game. The Miners, under Charlie Finley, now in his third- year, have beaten Missouri Western State College and Kansas State College-Pittsburg, while losing to Henderson State College of Arkansas and Missouri Valley College.

Southeast Missouri State has lost to Delta State College of Mississippi and the University of Evansville, Ind. The Tribe beat Missouri Southern State College and Arkansas Tech.

Last week, Finley's Miners were idle -- "resting and recovering" -- while the Tribe was drubbing Arkansas Tech 44-0. Despite the score, the contest was described by Lohr as the "hardest hitting" game in which his squad has engaged this season, and the Tribe has the injuries to show for it.

"Sick call" on Monday included Clifford Wicks, Rick Wieser, John Fritsche, Ron Reed, Mike Maguire, Craig Morgan, Steve Rogers, and Rick Schutt, although not all of them were injured in the Tech game.

Schutt, a freshman specialty team members from St. Louis, is lost for the season. Reed, a senior from Rogers, Ark., and Rogers, a senior from Chaffee, are not likely to play in Saturday's game. Doubtful are Fritsche, a junior from Florissant, and Morgan, a sophomore from Cape Girardeau.

The others should see action, at least on a limited basis.

Going into last Saturday's game, Coach Lohr knew that Arkansas Tech had a potent running attack, but had not been too successful with its passing game. This week he knows the Indian defense must be ready for either the pass or the run.

The Miners boast the best passer in the MIAA at this stage in Greg Haug, a 6-1, 185-pound quarterback from Ste. Genevieve, and the second and third best receivers in the conference in Merle Dillow and Stu Dunlop. Dillow is a 6-5, 222- pound tight end from Herrin, Ill., and Dunlop is a 6-3, 190-pound flanker from Herrin, Ill., and Dunlop is a 6-3, 190-pound flanker from Springfield, Mo.

UMR's ground attack is led by Mike Keeler, a 5-10, 175-pound running back from Wichita, Kan., and Mike Joshua, a 6-0, 205-pound running back from Chicago. They ranked number two and three respectively in the MIAA rushing statistics.

"Rolla has a good football team," said Coach Lohr. "In fact they're the most improved team in the conference, and they're going to have some success."

UMR needs only one more victory to match the number the Miners won last year when the chart read 3-6-2 at the end of the season.

It'll be Homecoming at Rolla Saturday, and the Miners would like nothing better than to post that victory then.

Coach Lohr will be counting on team depth, which he said "really paid off" in the Arkansas Tech game, to prevent this and enable the Indians to go over the .500 mark for the first time in 1974.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

Mystery machine aids farmer

Richard Dodson poses with one of the mystery machines that have plagued some Bertrand residents for several weeks.

The biggest square in the world is the Tian an men Square in Peking which extends over 98 acres.

Farmer uses guns to scare off birds

BERTRAND — Until a few days ago local residents thought someone was doing a lot of hunting or shooting at someone because every night they could hear what sounded like a gun shooting throughout the night.

An investigation by awakened and frightened neighbors found that Richard Dodson was the only one who knew the story.

Dodson, a farmer, has a large amount of milo growing in his field. After finding birds feasting on the grain early each morning, he placed five gasoline- operated guns throughout his field, set to go off at minute intervals and frighten away the birds.

Now that most of the residents know what it is, they go to sleep each night to the sounds of bang-bang.

It was reported on Dec. 7, 1968, that a book on febrile diseases checked out in 1823 from the University of Cincinnati Medical Library was returned by the borrower's great-grandson. The fine was calculated as $22,646, but waived.

Parole head named to board of directors

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — W. R. Vermillion, chairman of the Missouri Board of Probation and Parole, has been appointed to the national Board of directors of the American Corrections Association.

Vermillion will serve a one-year term on the board as a representative of the National Association of Paroling Authorities. He will be involved in setting up programs and determining the policy of the association.

The American Corrections Association is made up of federal, state and local organizations representing all areas of the criminal justice system.

American diplomat in good spirits after 13-day ordeal

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — American diplomat Barbara Hutchison was in good spirits and joking after seven leftist terrorists released her and six other hostages in return for safe conduct out of the country.

"Suddenly I became a tremendous bargain. I went from a million to nothing," the 47-year-old American quipped to newsmen Wednesday night after the 13-day episode ended.

The gunmen originally demanded $1 million ransom and the release of 37 leftist prisoners. They got nothing except a safe getaway.

The terrorists, who had held the hostages since Sept. 27 in a second-floor room of the Venezuelan consulate, were flown aboard a special Dominican jet to Panama, where they proclaimed victory and said they were exhausted.

As they left the Boeing 727 at Tocumen International Airport near Panama City, the gunmen, led by leftist Radhames Mendez Vargas, were met by Lt. Col. Manuel Antonio Noriega, chief intelligence officer of the Panamanian National Guard.

Miss Hutchison, director of the U.S. Information Service in the Dominican Republic, said she and the other hostages were treated well during the siege and even developed "something of a friendship" with their captors.

But she said there were many tense moments, the most difficult being "the waiting and then the various crises as they occur. There was a package of dynamite, and we were living with that."

At the same time, the terrorists were driven to the airport to board the special jetliner.

The largest ant in the world is the driver ant of Africa, workers of which measure up to 1.31 inches in length.

Dodge blends design, dependability

DETROIT — Buyers turned a very competitive year into a good one for Dodge in 1974.

And the new lineup provides an even better choice in model year 1975.

"While the entire industry's sales dipped below expectations during depressed conditions brought on by the energy crisis, Dodge was able to increase its market penetration," said Richard D. McLaughlin, general sales manager.

"Dodge moved from seventh to fourth place in industry sales in 1974. And one reason is that the division offered dependable products with great overall appeal.

"Coming off an all-time record year in 1973, Dodge is still in reach of its second or third best year in history.

"Dodge Dart is on its way to another division compact car record. And now, with an all-new line of intermediates heading changes for '75, Dodge strength is positioned exactly where the action is.

"Our new 1975 entries put us right on stream in the fast-moving intermediate segment.

"Intermediates and compacts rate a close 1-2 as the top two industry segments. Almost 70 per cent of Dodge buyers in 1974 selected cars from these two lines.

"We feel that our 1975 models represent the highest level of design from vehicle to vehicle that the division has ever introduced," said McLaughlin.

CHANGES AT A GLANCE

Dodge is introducing an all-new Special Edition as an intermediate specialty entry, an all-new series of Coronets, richer appearing Monacos and a variety of economy, sporty and luxury Darts.

Together with subcompact Colts introduced new for the calendar year, and a wide range of personal use-oriented vehicles from sport utility Ramchargers to Sportsman wagons and pickups, Dodge has assembled an across-the-board offering with great appeal.

The high level of design extends from pleasing exteriors to well-planned interiors. Engineering emphasis has been given to all-around performance, fuel economy, safety, serviceability, sound reduction, standarization and simplification of parts.

"Our new models represent automotive know-how that reflects what buyers really want in a car," McLaughlin said.

THIRTY-EIGHT MODELS

Intermediates represent eleven of Dodge's total 38 car models.

Most distinguished is the new Charter Special Edition, an exclusive Charger model for 1975. This two-door pillared hardtop represents a level of elegance and distinction never before offered in a Dodge intermediate.

It has all-new sheet metal, a new louvered fixed "opera" window and many of the design advantages introduced on Dodge full-size cars. The Charter Special Edition offers its own luxury level velour upholstery, carpeted trunk, shag carpeting and such options as power seats, door locks, and deck lid release, and Search-Tune AM/FM Multiplex radio.

Coronet presents a new image, too, with classically-styled two-door hardtops, sedans and two and three-seat wagons.

There are three trim and equipment levels in the two-door series, from the basic model on up to Custom and premium Brougham hardtops. These replace previous two-door versions of Dodge intermediates.

Sedans come in standard Coronet and Coronet Custom models. There's a low-priced wagon, middle-of-the-line Custom two and three-seat wagons, and premium Crestwood two and three-seat wagons.

Coronet sheet metal also is all new along with new bumpers, grille and lamps, wiper blades, lower belt line and larger door openings. Improvements extend to door latches, sealing systems, door glass guidance systems, hood latches and larger fuel tanks.

New options include remote control side mirrors, power seats and door locks, dual horns and electrically-heated tailgate defoggers on wagons.

Dart, as the division's volume line, will continue to offer eight models: the Sport and 360 Sport two-door coupes, Swinger and Swinger Special two-door hardtops, basic four-door Dart and Dart Custom sedans, and luxury two and four-door Dart Special Edition models.

While Dart exterior changes are minimal, there are new grilles, exterior colors and paint stripes, new interiors and some new options. Availability of six and eight-cylinder engines is expanded to all models.

With a "right-for-everybody" size and economy appeal, Dart is bidding for its seventh straight record sales year beyond the quarter-million set in calendar year 1973.

RICHER LOOK TO MONACO

And there are some changes in the nameplates to mark the three levels of elegance among Dodge's 13 models of these standard-size cars.

Valiant expanded line features styling, mechanical improvements

The Plymouth Valiant, America's top- selling compact car, offers an expanded line of models, plus up-graded styling and mechanical features of 1975, it was announced by Goza-Harper Motor Company.

In recognition of Valiant's continuing popularity -- nearly one out of every four compacts sold in the U. S. in 1974 were Valiants -- and the increasing demand for a variety of compact cars, two new highline models have been added.

"The additions we have made to the model lineup and the styling and mechanical improvements will help Valiant maintain its sales gains of recent years. Valiant is well on its way to setting its fifth consecutive model year sales record," Kelley Goza said.

"Valiant gained the largest share of market of any line in Chrysler Corporation and its popularity was instrumental in making Plymouth the third best- selling U. S. nameplate and placing Chrysler - Plymouth Division third among all American automobile sales divisions," he said.

"One of the new models is a sporty Duster coupe, the body style that has placed the line's sales gains. We're confident that we have a balanced line of real winners."

NEW MODELS: Added to the Valiant lineup for 1975 are the highline Duster Custom, a sport coupe, and the Valiant Custom four - door sedan. The premium Valiant Brougham four-door, introduced in mid-1974, is continued.

The complete line of 1975 models includes three sedans: Valiant, Valiant Custom, and Valiant Brougham; three coupes: Duster, Duster Custom, and Duster 360; and the Valiant Scamp and Valiant Brougham, both two-door hardtops. The coupes are on a 108-inch wheelbase, while the sedans and two-door hardtops have a 111-inch wheelbase.

All models except the Duster 360 offer as standard engines the more powerful 225 CID Slant Six or the 318 CID V-8, and have a new three- speed, fully-synchronized manual transmission. Duster 360 has the 360 CID V-8 and automatic transmission as standard.

The 198 CID six which was standard on 1974 models has been dropped from the line, and replaced by the 225, previously an optional engine.

JOWER REAR AXLE RATIOS FOR FUEL ECONOMY: For cars equipped with the 225 CID engine, the rear axle ratio is 2.76; those with the 318 engines use a 2.45 ratio axle and 360 CID engines have a 2.94 ratio as standard. An optional Fuel Pacer System, which warns the driver of excessive fuel usage, is continued for 1975.

A new optional manual transmission with an overdrive feature designed to improve performance and gas mileage will be available after the first of the year.

STYLING: Exterior styling changes to the Valiant include a new grille with integral park and turn signal lamps. The Brougham grille is chrome plated. There is a new rear lower deck applique for the Duster Custom and new side and rear tape stripes for the Duster. Sixteen exterior colors are offered.

There are six new high-quality upholsteries in cloth and vinyl or vinyl only for both bench and bucket seats.

Equipment added to the Valiant line for 1975 includes electric windshield washers, as standard. Options include bucket seats on the Scamp, speed control, dual horns, custom sport package for the Duster 360, and a protection group which includes inside hood release and glove box lock (standard on Brougham). Other options are: a radial tire roadability package, front sway bar and radial tires.

1975 Oldsmobile Starfire

Olds Starfire is all new car

LANSING, Mich. — The 1975 Oldsmobile Starfire is an all-new car for the division. It is offered in one body style, a sport coupe, built on a 97- inch wheelbase with an overall length of 179.3 inches. A 231- cubic-inch V-6 engine and a console - mounted four-speed synchromesh transmission are standard with a three- speed Turbo Hydra-matic transmission available as optional equipment.

The styling of the Starfire includes dual rectangular headlamps mounted in a soft plastic front end panel that flexes with the energy-absorbing front bumper in minor impacts and returns to its original shape without damaging any of the safety systems of the car.

Functional louvers with bright edges are located in the rear quarter lock pillars to exhaust air from the passenger compartment for efficient flow- through ventilation.

The energy- absorbing rear bumper is also surrounded with self- restoring soft plastic material allowing the bumpers to be blended into the overall theme of the car.

The rear also features a hatchback door, revealing the carpeted load floor which may be extended by folding the rear seat forward. A space- saver spare tire and inflator bottle are stored in the right hand rear quarter well, hidden from view by a soft trim tire cover.

The Starfire interior features high- back front bucket seats with a choice of velour cloth, supple vinyl or leather trims with a center console and custom sport steering wheel standard.

The instrument panel has a large tachometer and a speedometer and also includes a fuel gage, an ammeter and temperature gage and warning lights for "low coolant," "oil pressure," "fasten seat-belts" and "brake" indications.

The door inner panels are padded vinyl with bright trim and map pockets on both sides. The inside door release lever is flush mounted near the top of the trim panel with the lock buttons located inside the combination door pull and armrest. The parking brake lever is between the seats on the console.

Front disc and rear drum brakes with power assist and 13- inch steel-belted radial - ply blackwall tires are standard. Variable ratio power steering, sport wheels and mirrors, protective body side moldings and air conditioning are a few of the available options.

The Starfire front suspension is an independent design with wear indicators on the lower balljoints.

The rear suspension is a new torque- arm design providing a strong, durable system capable of handling the torque reactions and driving thrusts while providing excellent vehicle ride, noise and handling qualities. The torque- arm member controls rear axle wind-up forces and dampens engine and drive line vibration. The torque- arm and lower control arms handle the rear axle driving and braking forces, leaving the coil springs and shock absorbers free to perform the single function of riding cushioning.

A LONG DRIVER

OLD WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Delich, the new assistant to golf pro Ben Roman at the Old Westbury Golf and Country Club, is getting a reputation as one of the longest hitters on Long Island. The 5-foot-11 Delich recently hit a ball 370 yards over the 18th green at the nearby Plandome course. The ball hit an umbrella on the terrace of the clubhouse.

Delich credits his long drives to timing and muscular control. He has a slow backswing and seems to hit a ball with little effort. "If I try to hit the ball hard I seem to lose distance," says Delich. Delich played quarterback for Utah's State's football team in 1963 and 1964.

Tinnin to head farm inquiry

PORTAGEVILLE — State Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin of Hornersville, chairman of a legislative panel studying Missouri's agricultural problems, announced today that he has scheduled a public hearing of his subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Committee on Agriculture to be held on Oct. 14 to explore possible remedies for certain segments of Missouri's ailing agricultural industry.

The hearing will be conducted at the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville and will convene at 2 p.m.

Sen. Tinnin said the hearing is called in conjunction with a study authorized by the Missouri General Assembly of certain conditions in the state's agricultural industry, particularly to determine the adequacy of state laws affecting corporate farming activities and to investigage the high cost of feed, grain and fertilizer which threatens an adequate food supply for consumers.

Tinnin explained that he is seriously concerned with present conditions which lessen the productivity and adversely affect the prosperity of family farmers in Missouri, as well as the resulting effects of massive corporate farming on the family sized farming operations and the general welfare of the people of Missouri.

"We need to preserve the family sized farms lest the big corporations branch further out into the agriculture field and get complete control of every aspect of agriculture," Tinnin said.

"Our farmers are already caught up in a near- chaotic cost- price squeeze," Tinnins said, "and Missouri farmers are literally taking a beating in the state's overall agriculture economy."

Findings of the subcommittee are expected to help determine the need for remedial legislation, if any, to solve existing problems in the state's agriculture industry, especailly the need to place some form of statutory limitations on the size and scope of the activities of family farming corporations.

Members of the legislative panel are Sen. Norman Merrell, (D) of Monticello; Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, (D) of Hornersville; Sen. William J. Esely, (R) of Bethany; State Rep. D. R. Osbourn, (D) of Monroe City; and State Rep. William Blackwell, (D) of Herman.

HORRIBLE 'GAME'

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Nelson Cresbo is yet another New York boy to play "the game" — and lose. He was crushed between a Queens apartment house elevator and the shaft wall while trying to ride on the roof of the elevator. After he had climbed out on top through a hatch, a friend pushed the down button. Cresbo's clothing apparently was caught somehow and the accident resulted. Police say a number of youths have died in Queens under similar circumstances in recent years.

Cadillac 1975

Two famous Buick names—Skylark and Special—are back in the line for 1975. The compact Skylark coupe (top) has a new roofline with wide door pillars and a fixed rear quarter window. The Special, a coupe in the Century line, has been given specific treatment to reduce weight and improve fuel economy. Both cars are powered by Buick's new V-6 engine. The Special offers an optional Landau top with exterior paint striping.

Buick introduces new car line

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 18 — Buick Motor Division introduced its 1975 line of cars today with emphasis on its small size offerings, a new V-6 engine, and further improvements in fuel economy through a variety of engineering and technological advances.

For additional emphasis on smaller size cars, two familiar Buick names have been returned to the line-up -- Skylark and Special.

George R. Elges, Buick general manager and vice president of General Motors, said that Buick was making the biggest line-up change in 1975 that it has ever attempted in a single model year.

The new line also will feature the introduction of the spectacular new rectangular headlamps which will be on all Electra and Riviera models and the sporty Skyhawk coupe.

The Skyhawk, a sub-compact, is the smallest car to carry the Buick nameplate in more than 60 years. It is mounted on a 97-inch wheelbase and is shorter by 20 inches than any other model in the line.

Along with its size and weight advantage, a key feature of the new Skyhawk will be its fuel- saving power train -- the Buick V-6 engine and 4- speed manual transmission.

In the next step up in size -- the compact Apollo -- Buick again will offer three models -- a four- door sedan, a hatchback coupe and a regular coupe. Both coupes will be called "Skylark," thus returning to the line a familiar name that was dropped in 1972.

"Special" will be the name for a Century coupe that has been especially engineered for economy. Through a variety of weight reduction measures, plus offering only the V-6 as the power plant, this vehicle has attained excellent fuel economy in Proving Grounds tests.

From 1962 to 1967, Buick built a V-6 engine that gained tremendous recognition for the combination of fuel economy and performance that it provided. However, in 1967, in the face of the trend toward more horsepower and performance, the V-6 was dropped from the line.

That basic engine, with a number of new features such as the catalytic converter and high energy ignition system, is now back in the line.

The V-6 will be standard on the sub-compact Skyhawk, the compact Skylark, and the intermediate Special, Century and Regal coupes and sedans.

All Buicks will be equipped with catalytic converters, high energy ignition and a fast- acting choke to meet the '75 emissions standard. All Buicks also will require no-lead fuel.

Buick's upper series cars, LeSabre, Electra and Riviera, have been given styling refinements for 1975.

LeSabre's major changes are in front, with new sheet metal, a larger grille and new headlamp treatment.

The four- door LeSabre has a new six- window roofline, which combines with traditional Buick styling below the beltline for a very contemporary look.

LeSabre, along with Electra and Riviera models, will have an attractice new instrument panel that has been designed for quick and convenient servicing from the front. All of the indicator lights are grouped in a data center at the right of the speedometer for quick and easy reference.

In the Electra line, there will be a four- door hardtop with a six- window roof design and a colonnade coupe with a fixed quarter window.

Fingerprint lifted from fence

The darkened spot on the fence rail still shows signs of the place where Dunklin County authorities allegedly took a bloody fingerprint belonging to Dr. Norman Garrison of Corinth, Miss., the day (Sept. 8) his ex-wife was murdered. The plush home lies in the background. Authorities have released little other evidence to link the doctor to the murder of the 32- year - old mother of four.

Attacks grow on surtax proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A number of Republican candidates in next month's elections have disassociated themselves from the anti-inflation surtax that President Ford contends would cost taxpayers only a few cents a day.

Criticism from GOP Senate and gubernatorial candidates came as the senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., said he believes the fate of Ford's 5 per cent surtax proposal "rests on the American public and what they tell us when we go home."

Ford, who has conceded that many thought the tax proposal "politically unwise" just four weeks before the Nov. 5 elections, tried a new approach in defending it Wednesday at his outdoor news conference in the White House Rose Garden.

A family of four with $20,000 gross income would pay $42, or 12 cents a day, while a family with $16,000 income would pay only $3 — or less than one penny per day, Ford said.

And he said that only 28 per cent of the nation's taxpayers would pay any additional tax. He said enactment of the surtax and the rest of his anti-inflation package could produce "a meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation" by early 1975.

Ford went to Philadelphia to boost Republican candidates Wednesday night. He told a fund-raising dinner the surtax is fair and equitable.

The American people "want to step up and do what's right. Politicians ought to do the same thing," Ford said.

But just before the President arrived, the Republican gubernatorial candidate in Pennsylvania, Drew Lewis, told reporters he opposed the surtax and suggested closing tax loopholes instead.

And Republican Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania, also up for re-election, denounced the surtax.

In Kansas, GOP Sen. Robert Dole declared that many people in the state who made $15,000 were suffering economically and "the last thing they need is an additional surtax to pay."

Ford also said at his news conference:

—He believes a one-year surtax will be sufficient, instead of a two-year tax suggested by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the acting head of the House Ways and Means Committee.

—There has been "nothing to change" his inclination to run for the presidency in 1976.

—He will meet Oct. 21 with Mexican President Luis Echeverria in Nogales, Mexico, his first trip outside the continental United States since becoming President.

—He doesn't think there was anything improper in gifts by Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller to several individuals, including Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger before Kissinger joined the government.

—He would meet with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev prior to a scheduled summit meeting next year if there is need for an earlier conference.

—He declined any new comment on his pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon prior to Ford's appearance before a House Judiciary subcommittee on Oct. 17.

Rep. Mills in seclusion after bizarre incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills spent at least part of the evening drinking, dining and dancing with friends hours before he was involved in a bizarre incident in which one of his women companions was rescued from drowning by police.

The manager of a Washington night club where the Arkansas Democrat has been a frequent patron said Mills, three women and another man were in the establishment for about three hours on Sunday night.

During that time they had dinner and drinks which cost about $80 in all and then left, according to George Bertran, 47, manager of the Junkanoo restaurant on fashionable Connecticut Avenue. None of the group appeared intoxicated when they left about 9:30 p.m., he said.

The whereabouts of the influential 65-year-old congressman, chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means committee, remained a mystery between that hour and the 2 a.m. incident at the Tidal Basin near the Jefferson Memorial.

Mills himself remained in seclusion late Wednesday as the U.S. Park Police disputed a claim Mills made through aides that he was not present at the incident and knew nothing about it.

Mills is currently involved in a re-election campaign and facing his stiffest challenge in years from a woman Republican candidate.

As recounted by police, the Tidal Basin incident occurred when two officers stopped a 1973 Lincoln Continental that was traveling at an unreasonable speed with lights out at 2 a.m. Monday. Five people spilled out. The car was registered to Mills, police said.

They said one of the men identified himself to the officers as Mills and the police report, according to Franklin A. Arthur, assistant chief of the Park Police, described this man as "intoxicated." His face was scratched and bleeding, they said.

While police questioned the group, a woman identified as Anabella Battistella, crying and shouting in mixed Spanish and English, ran to a bridge and leaped into the water. She was rescued by an officer who dove in after her.

In a news conference called after Mills' claim that he was not involved, Arthur said, "We can assume it was Rep. Mills." He added, "I think the officers would recognize" him.

Mississippi officials hearing Garrison extradition case today

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final of a three- part series dealing with an investigation by Daily Standard state editor Ron Jaynes and special correspondent Mark Geers into the Sept. 8 murder of Lee Ann Garrison.)

JACKSON, Miss. — Evidence supporting the claim of Dr. Norman Asa Garrison Jr. of Corinth, Miss., that he was in Mississippi at the time of his ex-wife was murdered Sept. 8 in Kennett, Mo., was presented today to James E. Williams, a legal assistant to Gov. Bill Waller, at a hearing on an extradition request by the state of Missouri.

A decision will be made today either to extradite or deny any extradition, or the matter could be taken under advisement.

Dr. Garrison's attorneys said that if extradition is denied, the governor of Missouri would be asked to exonerate the doctor of the charges.

John B. Farese Sr., chief counsel for Dr. Garrison, presented nine affidavits sworn to by witnesses who said they had been with, seen or talked to the doctor Sept. 7 and 8 in Mississippi. Also presented at today's hearing was Dr. Garrison's own sworn statement as to his whereabouts on the two days.

Charles H. Baker, Dunklin County, Mo., prosecuting attorney, was expected to present evidence supporting his claim that Dr. Garrison was in Kennett on the day of the murder and that he was present at the murder scene at the time the crime was committed.

Farese and John Hopkins, attorneys for Dr. Garrison, were to present evidence that Dr. Garrison was in Tishomingo County, Miss., at the time of the murder, not in Kennett as the prosecution claims.

As this article was being written, few details of the Dunklin County prosecuting attorney's case against the doctor were known. Baker has steadfastly refused to discuss the evidence his office has gathered.

However, some information has been obtained about his expected

Lewis, LaRue bound over to Circuit Court

BLOOMFIELD — Melvin Leon Lewis of Sikeston and David LaRue of Gray Ridge have been bound over to Circuit Court on three counts of first degree murder, according to an attorney representing LaRue.

The decision was handed down Wednesday afternoon by Magistrate Jerry Estes of Cape Girardeau, who was appointed as special judge over the case following disqualification of Stoddard County Magistrate Koss Blomeyer. Judge Estes had taken the case under advisement following a preliminary hearing Tuesday to determine if the two should stand trial.

Lewis and LaRue are charged with the murder of three of the five Lewis children, Melvin Jr., 7, Jody, 6, and Mark, 5, by setting fire to the Lewises rural Essex home on Aug. 1, 1973.

About face; Man blocks trains with automobile

CHAFFEE — Although Chaffee residents occasionally must wait as long as 40 minutes for a train to clear a railroad crossing, seldom does anyone try to do anything about the situation.

However, Fred Golightly, 339 E. Parker St., decided Friday was the time to show Frisco Railway Co. just how frustrating the situation can be.

According to Golightly, at 3:55 p.m. Friday be began waiting in line for a train to pass, and at 4:40 p.m. he was still waiting.

By this time Golightly said he was not in a very pleasant mood, so, after taking his family home when the crossing finally opened, he returned to the scene, parked his car on the railroad tracks, locked it and left.

Approximately 20 minutes later, he returned to the scene and discovered railroad officials were going to have his car removed with a wrecker.

When asked what he was going to do, Golightly replied, "I'm doing nothing, just like you were doing an hour ago".

Golightly refused to move his car until 45 minutes had passed. Then he got into his car and drove away.

Golightly says he has lost several hours of work because of trains blocking the crossing for similar periods of time.

"The Chaffee city ordinance reads that the tracks should not be blocked for more than 10 minutes, but the railroad people just don't pay any attention to it," he remarked.

"I do not mind waiting in line for 10 or 15 minutes,

Inquiry begins into plane crash

CHARLESTON — An inquiry into the crash of the crop dusting plane in which the pilot, Jimmy Johnson, 36, of rural Charleston was killed about 10:45 a.m. Wednesday is being conducted by officials from the Federal Aviation Administration office in St. Louis, according to Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

McMikle also said an autopsy is being performed at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Johnson reportedly had just finished seeding a wheat field when the plane crashed in a soybean field about two miles southeast of Charleston on the Harry Giltz farm.

Born Oct. 13, 1937 in Lepanto, Ark., Johnson was the son of Mrs. Addie Johnson of Anna, Ill., and Bud Johnson of Morehouse, who survive.

He had lived in the Charleston area nine years and was owner and operator of the Gulf Oil Co. station on Highway 60 east of Charleston and the Jimmy Johnson Flying Service.

On Dec. 3, 1969, he married Juanita Pinkard, who survives.

He is also survived by one daughter, Diane Johnson of the home, one brother and four sisters.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. today at McMikle Funeral Home, where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday. The Rev. Larry Long, pastor of First Christain Church, will officiate.

Burial will follow in IOOF Cemetery.

Charleston gas station robbed

CHARLESTON — Two white men armed with pistols robbed two attendants of $53.85 at the Hudson Oil Co. station on Highway 60-62 near the Mississippi River bridge about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday, according to Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons.

One of the men was described as being tall and bald with long sideburns and the other as being short.

Reportedly, the men drove up to the gasoline pumps. One of the men went into the station, pulled a gun on attendant Fred Haley and made him walk behind the building and lay down, where he took $49.84 in company

For Dexter schools

Bond issue election set

DEXTER — The Dexter school board has set Nov. 19 as the date for a special bond issue referendum. Officials are asking voters to approve $1.3 million in funds for construction of a new junior high school and a five- room addition to the high school.

"This is a good, round number," Supt. Thurston Hill told the board at its Monday night meeting, "and should be quite adequate."

The school district can legally go into debt up to 10 per cent of the total assessed evaluation in the district.

"We could legally ask voters to approve an additional $65,000," Hill said, "but it's not needed right now. Besides, it's always a good idea to have a little cushion."

The board approved only the amount of the bond issue. The sale of the bonds and how the district will pay them off will not be determined until after the election.

If the bond issue wins voter approval, "there is no reason why we can't let out the contracts in the spring," Hill said.

Tentative plans call for the building to be completed and in use by the 1976-77 school year.

In other business, the board set a $5 per night fee for use of any school gym on week nights and $15 for use on Saturday and Sunday.

This will barely cover expenses, Hill said. The higher rate on the weekend is due to the fact that custodians will have to do extra work and be paid time and a half.

The fee schedule was worked out in response to a number of groups wishing to use school facilities. These rates are good only if there are no paying spectators or large numbers of spectators.

It was also announced at the meeting that attendance in the district had increased by 45 students over last year, with 2,226 students enrolled at the end of the first month this year, compared with 2,181 at the same time last year.

"LEST WE FORGET ..."

Toward the end of summer, when POW Emmet Kay was released by the Pathet Lao Communists, some news stories alleged that Mr. Kay was the "last known" prisoner to be held by the Reds.

It is true that the Communists have steadfastly maintained that there are no other Americans being held captive in Communist occupied territory. But, we have no reason to believe that they are telling the truth.

It is known that 1140 Americans classified as missing in action and 1266 more who were believed to have been killed in action in Communist zones have never been accounted for. Not only have the Communists refused to give us any information whatsoever about these men, they have also refused to allow American or neutral identification teams to go to known crash sites to recover remains or determine if the pilot and/or crew got out of the plane. In deed, when one unarmed U. S. identification team endeavored to go to a crash site in South (not North) Vietnam, the Captain of the team was murdered in cold blood by the Viet Cong, who had deliberately set up an ambush.

It is further known that some of the missing men were alive — and, according to the Communists themselves, "well" — after their capture in Communist zones, because the Communists themselves photographed the prisoners and then distributed the pictures as part of their propaganda campaigns. The Communists now allege, with straight faces, that they know nothing about them.

We know that in a similar confrontation with the Russian Communists, after World War II, an American civilian, John Noble, was reported "missing." For ten solid years, in spite of repeated inquiries, the Communists maintained that they knew nothing of Noble. In fact, he was held in Soviet concentration camps for the entire period, and only through a miracle (which Noble attributes to God) was he able to smuggle word out, which finally led to his release.

Americans must not forget the missing and killed in action, and we must never cease in our demands that the Communists abide by the Paris Accords, and allow us to go to the crash sites and bring home the dead for proper burial... as well as determining the whereabouts of those, living or dead, who were known to have been captured.

If in place of taking the tax out of each week's pay check the worker were paid in full the first three weeks each month and the month's total withholding tax taken out of fourth week, this tax would be put in its true light. Perhaps no one would want to work over three weeks. The outcry would be quite loud and no doubt those with their "ears to the ground" would be quick to cut government costs. This requires change in tax regulations.

PURCHASE PRICE IS ONLY THE BEGINNING

If you think that the prices of most consumer goods have been going up, you are correct. But if you really want to know about the hidden costs of products, such as consumer appliances, hold on to your chairs.

According to a recent report by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the hidden costs of major consumer appliances are already at least equal to the purchase price and threaten to jump sharply in the future.

"The American public generally is unaware of the 'life- cycle costs' of major appliances, which in addition to purchase price, include costs of maintenance and repairing, servicing, electrical operating energy, and even disposal,' says the report.

In 1972, the MIT says, the American consumer paid between $2.5 and $4 billion for radio, TV and household appliance repair, and another $5 billion for energy to operate these products. Sometimes the service costs for such appliances alone can cost more than the entire purchase price.

And with electric power rates rising — a projected 75 per cent increase between 1975 and 1980 — this cost can be greater than both service costs and purchase price, the MIT report says.

The recently published report is called "The Productivity of Serving Consumer Durable Products." It's major purpose was to "examine alternatives for increasing appliance service productivity in the context of what the consumer pays for a product during its usable life."

Focusing mainly on the color television and refrigerator industries — two of the largest in terms of consumer spending — the report makes some striking observations.

The owner of a $500 color television set, for example, can expect to spend another $500 on the set for servicing and electrical power costs during the TV's usable life.

In the same way, the owner of a $400 refrigerator will spend about $1,100 on it during its life.

The MIT study joins thousands of disgruntled consumers who have already charged that product reliability must be increased to reduce service costs over a product's usable life.

Progress has already been made in this area, the report notes, for in the last eight years there has been a 50 per cent decline in the need for service of color television sets and a similar decline in refrigerators over the last 14 years

Unfortunately service costs have increased so greatly that they have offset what otherwise would have been a sharply reduced "life cycle cost" for those two items.

So where will it all end? Someday, perhaps, an appliance such as a color TV may need to be serviced only once in its entire usable lifetime.

When that time comes, however, the TV repairmen will have so little to do they will be forced to raise their fees to several hundred dollars per visit just to make a living.

Then, of course, we'll be right back where we started.

When these deserters and dodgers get presidential forgiveness, would you be willing to hire one of them and let the public know your staff included such a person? And the biggest joke of it all is to require these quitters to take an oath of allegiance to the United States. Just what would that mean? If they didn't like what the U.S. was doing, they wouldn't feel they were obligated by that oath. Quite likely we won't be here to vote in 1976, but you can write it down now we won't vote for Ford, just like we wouldn't vote for either McGovern or Nixon in 1972. Surely the two parties will profit by their experience and be more careful in choosing their next candidates.

Ashcroft's
nit- picking

John Ashcroft, the State Auditor (a Republican) has been trying very hard for the past year -and -a half to find evidence of wrongdoing on the part of Warren E. Hearnes while the latter served as Governor of Missouri.

You can bet that the GOP official, an appointee of Governor Christopher "Kit" Bond, would have given his eyeteeth to be able to "pin a rap" on Governor Hearnes. (Hearnes, in case you did not know it, is a Democrat.)

We imagine Mr. Ashcroft was expecting to find that millions of dollars in state funds had gone into the pockets of Hearnes and his administration's insiders.

Instead of that, we find released with much publicity this week, and with headlines that can only harm the reputation of Mr. Hearnes was guilty of so -called "illegal actions."

Ashcroft, who is running for election to the office he has helf by appointment since Bond resigned in 1973, says the former Governor made several errors. What he does not say is how Hearnes personally made a dime off the state by any of these so -called "illegal" transactions.

We are disappointed in Warren E. Hearnes. We would have thought that if a governor were really smart, and wanted to steal from the state, he could have stolen enough so that he would no longer have to work and make a living.

Seriously, however, we question the sincerity and validity of Mr. Ashcroft's findings -particularly in view of the timing of their release to the public - just a month before the general election.

As in so many other instances, the State Auditor's reports are based on his own interpretation of the laws. In most cases there is a valid reason for actions which may appear to the Auditor to be in violation of the law.

Knowing this, Mr. Ashcroft has repeatedly ignored requests from Mr. Hearnes for details about some of the "violations" of which he is accusing the former Governor.

As we read the Ashcroft charges reported in the daily newspapers, these are the nit -picking findings of a worried politician who is trying to find some issue that will keep himself in office.

Still More
Turmoil

There is something about Richard M. Nixon that seems to involve violence. Certain aspects of his life seem to invite violence and it's been that way rather much through the years.

Violence even got involved in his going to the hospital a few days ago. He wanted secrecy, of course, and we suppose that as involved as he has been in scandal he is entitled to secrecy. But he's still news.

So when he went to the hospital and tried to go through a side door there were newsmen waiting for him. One asked about his health and got this kind remark, "Good afternoon." But one NBC newsman, with a camera, did not fare so well. One of the men guarding Mr. Nixon knocked it from the newsman and broke it. So Mr. Nixon went right onto into the hospital.

All I Know Is...

This is a familiar line used by Cowboy -philosopher Will Rogers, who concluded it with, "what I read in the newspapers."

Since the newspapers explore issues in depth and at greater length than most other media and in a form which a reader can adapt to his own time schedule, the newspaper remains our basic source for continuing information.

Some of the experts say that the newspaper will be the significant, thriving entity in the communications world of 1980. The future newspaper many not look like the one we know today, but in the words of Joseph Pulitzer, "Our Republic and its press will rise or fall together."

Since the newspaper plays such a key part in our future it figures that publisher, advertiser, reader form a tight knit group. The proper development of a newspaper is so important to our democratic society, and to all of us as individuals, that it merits strong support so it can perform its function well.

Many Factors
In Heart Disease

Deaths from heart disease "have reached epidemic proportions in the U.S." so reads a story by a staff reporter of The Wall Street Journal. The story is based on information. released by a National Institues of Health advisory committee. The committee called for a new national program to combat heart disease and urged the appointment of a Presidential commission to plan such a program.

Meanwhile, science is continuing its search for the reasons why cardiovascular disease is the leading medical cause of death in the U.S. The evidence seems to be mounting, for example, that the answer is far more complicated than merely forcing a change in the nation's diet --telling normal, healthy people what they should or should not eat. A Food Writer's Conference, held by the National Dairy Council in Chicago, at which eminent nutrition research scientists described various studies relating to the causes of heart disease, has revealed complexities of the problem that go far beyond diet. Hugh B. Lofland, Ph. D., of North Carolina, who has conducted heart research for 15 years, concludes that genetics --who your parents are --is an important factor in heart disease. He believes susceptible people can and should be identified so that physicians can prescribe treatment. Dr. Meyer Friedman, addressing the conference, noted that personality traits such as aggressiveness, ambition, drive, competitiveness, and a profound sense of time urgency characterize the behavior of persons most prone to heart attacks.

The principal conclusion inevitably drawn from meetings in which the best scientific minds offer the findings of broad research is that until more is known about the cause of "heart trouble", the normal, healthy person should steer clear of emotional fads involving diet. A balanced diet chosen from the four basic food groups --plus eating and exercising in moderation-- is still very likely the best recipe for good health.

ANOTHER ELECTION

A summer of crisis has passed and Republic USA stands with its head high in the family of nations. Once again, we have proved that we can weather critical situations in government, shortages in materials and foodstuffs and drouth and deluge. It would not be accurate to say that we have solved all our problems but there is evidence that we are working on them. Now we are into autumn and face the general elections in November. It's a good feeling to know that the ballot box will be in place and that at that box we will elect many of the people who will play key roles in our governmental process.

The national, state and local elections give us a voice in many facets of government, including the manner in which the problem of inflation is tackled. This column has always advocated the free marketplace as the means of price control and it is our belief that those candidates who lean in that direction will be the most constructive in whipping out inflationary pressures on the economy. Balancing budgets should get a lot of voter attention, also, and that includes state and county as well as federal.

One budget item that looms over all is that which is earmarked for national defense. The Republic must remain strong in this field. A free economy will surpass that of the communists any time. To endanger our system of government with defense slashes could make moot all our efforts in whipping domestic problems. Thus, the ballot box looms more vital than ever for that is where the big decisions will be made this November. HLH

WASHINGTON — Deep in the heart of the White House, far from the prying eyes of the public and press, is one of the most important rooms in the government. It is the place where they blow up the trial balloons which are floated by the Ford Administration.

Thanks to a source who shall remain nameless, I managed to get into the room and see for myself how this all-important operation functions.

The room was very long -- the size of a football field -- and divided into workbenches. On each bench was seated a member of the Administration or friend of President Ford blowing up large funny-shaped balloons.

They were so busy with their work, they didn't notice me.

"Say," I said to my source, "isn't that Mel Laird blowing up a balloon over there?"

"Yes," he replied, "the balloon he's blowing up has to do with gas rationing. He tried to float it last week, but it didn't fly."

"So he's going to send it up again?"

"He'll probably try it once more in a different shape and, if it's shot down this time, he'll go on to something else."

"Boy, you have to have a lot of air to blow up one of those balloons," I said.

"Mel does. He probably has floated more trial balloons than anyone in the Ford kitchen cabinet."

"How does he do it?" I asked.

"Well, he meets with the President and they decide what trial balloon Mr. Ford wants to send up.

"Let's say the President is thinking about gas rationing but he doesn't know if the public will go for it. So he tells Laird to send up a balloon and see the reaction. Laird comes down here and starts blowing."

"And then he sends it up?" I asked.

"Not really. He has to sell it to somebody. If he sent it up himself, nobody would take the balloon seriously. So he calls up Evans and Novak and says, 'The President is going to institute gas rationing.'"

"And Evans and Novak buy it?"

"Every time," my source said. "They float it in their column and then we wait for congressional and press reaction. If it's negative, the President orders Ron Nessen to shoot the trial balloon down by denying he has any intention of rationing gas."

"Doesn't Laird get angry after blowing up one of those balloons to see it shot down?"

"Heck, no. He works for the Reader's Digest, and this gives him something to do."

"Isn't that Secretary of the Treasury Bill Simon over there?"

"He's blowing up a trial balloon on an income surtax. He'll probably float it at a chamber of commerce dinner in Chicago tonight."

"Who are all those people sticking pins in the balloon that Simon is blowing up?"

"They're Arthur Burns, Alan Greenspan, Roy Ash and Paul McCracken. When it comes to the economy, all Mr., Ford's economic advisers do is stick pins in each other's trial balloons."

"Are my eyes deceiving me," I said, "or did Henry Kissinger just walk in?"

"Henry's here quite a bit," my source said. "He just floated a balloon last week on getting tough with the oil-producing countries and it landed with a thud. I guess he wants to take some new balloons with him to the Middle East."

"Look," I said excitedly, "there's Sen. Hugh Scott."

"Poor Hugh," my source said. "The Nixon people used him to launch all their trial balloons on Watergate and he's still trying to get back his second wind.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Voice of the People

WASHINGTON — We have been hearing about America from its people. We asked, you may remember for a Bicentennial slogan. The response was spontaneous; tens of thousands of citizens from all walks of life have sent us slogans, phrases and poetry expressing how they feel about their country.

Many have written accompanying letters of testimonial. To read them is to understand that the Watergate horrors, economic uncertainties and other afflictions have not shaken the American faith.

Some with a lifetime behind them have written about the turmoil they have seen. Youths looking ahead have written about the challenge of events. We have heard from aliens about the dreams which brought them to this land. Even a few convicts have responded, with a special poignancy, about the meaning of freedom.

Some have applauded Predsident Ford's attempt to return to the White House a humanity and openness more becoming a free republic. Others have taken issue with the President over his decision to pardon Richard Nixon and thus suffocate the legal process to its crib. They reject the idea that the country would be better served by amnesia than by truth.

We received one slogan from an authentic American pioneer, 98- year- old Jesse L. Hall, who was born in the centennial year of 1876. He has spent his long life pushing westwards. He lived through the blizzard of 1887 in a homemade muslin tent on the Nebraska prairie. In Wyoming, he was elected to the state legislature. Now he abides in Reno, Nev.

He summed up his view of America in a simple, three-word slogan: "The Republic Stands."

From cell C-8 in the Florida state penitentiary, Raiford, Fla., Willie Young wrote: "Need I say, my life has been a miserable road to travel. After years of walking it alone, I discovered one must believe in something."

He put his sentiments into these words: "A Country not made by Hand but by the Grace of God and the Will of Man."

There were other poetic responses. "We may stumble but never fall; Down through the years, we still stand tall," wrote Raymond Richardson from Chicago.

A Boalsburg, Pa., teacher, Ruth H. Carter, felt "an extreme need for the children to know their country's heritage." She suggested this slogan: "So the Children Will Know."

In Toledo, Ohio, the second and third grade students at Lincolnshire School composed a slogan together: "I work for Democracy because it works for me."

Many other children sent in slogans. For instance, a 12-year- old Forest Heights, Md., girl, Mary Elizabeth Henry, proposed: "America, a Homesteaded Heart." And 14-year- old Penny Chandler of Fresno, Calif., sent in this one: "Two Hundred Steps -- and More to Come."

Teen-agers, too, responded by the hundreds. From Annapolis, Md., 18- year- old James P. Gough told of his frustration over "recent acts by men in high places." Yet he could still offer two heartfelt slogans: "America, a Theme that is Timeless" and "America, Something Warm that Touched my Heart."

A 19- year- old, Johnny Carter of Long Beach, Calif., suggested this sign be posted across America: "Conquerors and Corruptors Beware. This Nation is the Property of the People."

And a Wilmington, N.C., high school student, Stewart Moshe, submitted this slogan: "There's No Way like the American Way."

From John Lauria of Jacksonville, Fla., we received a simple, sincere motto: "America, Where People are Happy." He added meaningrully: "I should know. I came here in 1903."

Here are a few other offerings selected at random from our mailbag:

Florence A. Tracy Revelle, Ardmore, Okla. -- "Pride in our past; Faith in our future; Forward America."

George Kelly, Philadelphia, Pa. -- "Here Lives a Free People, 1776-1976."

Joseph P. McGoldrick, Jackson Heights, N.Y. -- "In America, there are no impossible dreams."

Jim Felton, Little Rock, Ark. -- "America is coming of Age."

J. K. Smith, Salt Lake City, Utah -- "Freedom: 1776, 1976, Forever."

Evelyn Conley, Pittsburgh, Pa. -- "USA: Undaunted Stands America."

Ross Doty, Spokane, Wash. -- "America, My Country: May She Ever Hold High the Torch of Freedom."

Meanwhile, our search for a Bicentennial slogan continues.

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

New 'Kennedy' Star? Labor Sees Cong. Carey Smashing Rocky's Machine; Set For '76 National Ticket

NEW YORK -- All political contests are equal -- but this seasons the New York gubernatorial race is more equal than the others, it seems to me. A Kennedy star is being born. For the nation he's one of the obscure, but if the polls are right in giving him an ocean- sized "margin," he'll be a national name talked of for the 1976 Democratic presidential ticket.

He's 55- year- old Congressman Hugh Carey, ex-infantryman, Bronze Star and French Croix de Guerre winner for slogging it all over Western Europe under Nazi fire in the big one. Already labor's inner circle sees him as the replacement for "Ted" nationally as the Irish Catholic Kennedy image --" in the second slot at least, with a Jackson, a Mondale or a Bentsen."

The labor strategists, COPE's strongest men, see "Hughie" smashing incumbent Gov. Malcom Wilson to a political pulp. This would destroy what's left of Nelson Rockefeller's home- based machine.

One needs no Nick the Greek to bolster the labor leaders' confidence. Some polls have shown Carey 25 per cent -- and more -- ahead of Gov. Wilson. If the final count reflects this it will be a dramatic and traumatic throwback to the old Jack Kennedy- labor- Catholic 1960 presidential victory.

Not only would it kick the props out from under ex-Governor Rockefeller (who depended for victories on little-known coalitions with liberal and regular machine Democrats) but it could dispatch Sen. Jack Javits back to Cuba as a paying tourist who once was a U.S. Senator.

If the labor chiefs are right -- and they 're now putting their best money, best manpower and best political minds on the line with AFL-CIO President George Meany's quiet support -- there will be a straight Democratic victory. This could defeat the Republican liberal Sen. Javits. It would take some doing, but it just might happen.

Meany dislikes Javits, who never has lost. The AFL-CIO chief told him in effect recently that he (Meany) was not proud of the fashion in which Javits sat at the feet of Castro when the Cuban dictator attacked the U.S. in a characteristically wild speech.

"You should have taken the first plane home," Meany snapped at Javits.

Further, Meany also is furious with the Senator for "attempting to bribe" the Soviets with favorable trade concessions in exchange for the annual release of 60,000 Jewish folk when the U.S.S.R. is bound to permit open emigration under its United Nations charter signature. So Javits won't have much labor outpouring. In name, yes, in logistics, no.

It will all go to Hugh Carey, who would have been out front years ago were it not for some heartbreaking personal tragedies. Now the Congressman from New York's 15th congressional district is in it all the way. He's back to the fighting tone of 1960 when he hooked his career to Jack Kennedy. And to 1964 when he plunged in to help Bobby Kennedy with the New York Senate race. He is, of course, Catholic. He has long been "in the family." He sees some of the clan often and is intimate with several of them. Thus, should he "win big," say the labor chiefs, Carey will be the natural replacement of Ted Kennedy's image on the 1976 national ticket.

Should he beat Rockefeller's protege, incumbent Gov. Wilson and his money, Carey would become a powerful governor. And a power in the Democratic party. That would settle much of the inner feuding. It would blend the reasonable left with the regular "right" and labor chiefs. It would swing Al Barkan's COPE back into the official party structure. It would provide just the antidote to political suicide the party needs before its mini-convention in Kansas City -- billed as the greatest political mayhem match in history. Or at least since the '68 Chicago convention.

In the pragmatic, hard-nosed politicians' language, he would balance out the ticket and neutralize Catholic resentment against those who forced Ted Kennedy into an "early decision" (the full story of which I believe hasn't yet been told).

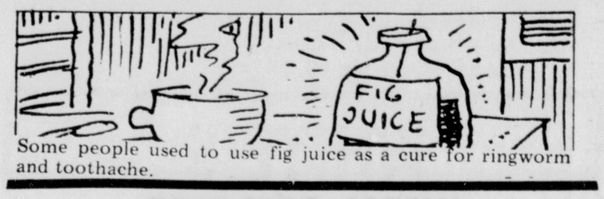
Hugh Carey would provide the party's presidential frontrunners with just the balance they need, say the inner sanctum labor chiefs.

Washington state's Sen. Scoop Jackson needs the liberal Northeast establishment -- so badly, in fact, that he took time out of his foray in New Hampshire the other day to stump in Massachussetts with Father Robert Drinan, the Boston suburban Congressman.

Minnesota's Walter "Fritz" Mondale certainly needs surfacing with a Northeasterner -- especially with the Kennedy charisma. Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who already has been conferring with New York publicists, is not unmindful of what Lyndon Johnson used to call the Austin- Boston Axis whenever we talked of the Kennedys.

Thus, reckon the labor men, who better than ex- Mayor Hugh Leo Carey? There is, of course, the Catholic governor of Ohio, John Gilligan. But he's alienated Meany and others by breaching one cardinal rule – he intervened in labor politics against the Ohio state AFL-CIO labor federation ex- president and COPE chief Frank King who was ousted by a Gilligan coalition. There's New Jersey's Gov. Brendan Byrne. But the powerful labor leaders are with Carey.

All this proves the New York gubernatorial campaign is not the usual horse race. As recent history has gone, this could be the making of a President. At least a Vice President.



Some people used to use fig juice as a cure for ringworm and toothache.

Plans made for P'ville telethon

PORTAGEVILLE — Plans are under way for the fourth annual Portageville Lions Club telethon, which will begin at 10 p.m. Nov. 2 and end at 2 a.m. Nov. 3.

The Portageville telethon is held in conjunction with and one week prior to the Paducah, Ky., benefit telethon for crippled children which covers a four- state area.

Last year's Portageville telethon raised $3,109, or almost a dollar per person in Portageville. All money sent to the Paducah telethon from Missouri is distributed back to Missouri for use here.

The actors who perform at the Paducah telethon donate their time, but a percentage of the gross proceeds are paid to the Actors Guild. All money received in advance pledges goes on an advance pledge card, from which no expenses are taken.

Delta Video Cable in Portageville will televise the local event. Any person with talent of any kind who would like to perform for this worthy cause may contact Mrs. Jerry Mayo at her home, 410 W. 12th St., or by calling phone number 379-3374.

Mrs. Mayo stresses that the Portageville telethon would not have been the success it has been in the past if it were not for the young people in Portageville who involve themselves by setting up roadblocks, canvassing from door to door and picking up contributions when someone calls in a pledge.

The Easter Seal Society would like to establish a center in the Bootheel area, which could become a reality if enough money is raised, and is reportedly trying to find a suitable building.

The Easter Seal Society not only helps crippled children, but they also help the blind and other handicapped people by providing wheel chairs, hospital beds, walking canes and many other services.

Mississippi tour to be televised

NEW MADRID — A half-hour documentary film of the 1974 Mississippi River raft tour by the Otrabanda Company, a professional theater troupe from Yellow Springs, Ohio, is scheduled to be televised Sunday at 10 a.m. central daylight time on Columbia Broadcasting System affiliates as part of the Camera Three series.

The theater group, sponsored by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, gave a free public performance of the "River Raft Revue" in New Madrid on July 4 and plans to return next summer.

The river tour originated in St. Louis on June 15 and ended Aug. 21 in New Orleans. Otrabanda performed in 30 towns and prisons along the river, including Cape Girardeau, Commerce, Cairo, Ill., Hickman, Ky., Tiptonville, Tenn., and Caruthersville.

School psychologist talks to Lions Club

A problem child cannot be treated in isolation, then sent back into the world; he can't be separated from his environment, Gloria Dible, school psychologist, told the Sikeston Lions Club Wednesday at its noon meeting in the Travelodge Restaurant.

Mrs. Dible spends three days each week in Sikeston schools and one day each in Charleston and East Prairie. The position of school psychologist was created this year.

Mrs. Dible said she is mainly concerned with the child who can't adjust to his surroundings.

Many children with special problems have not been given proper help in the past, she said, so the school hired a psychologist.

We don't work any miracles, she said, adding that not all treatments succeed.

She said she tries to identify problem children in the lower grades because, by the time they get to high school, their behavioral patterns are set.

Mrs. Dible said national statistics show that 10 per cent of all children have emotional problems, with three per cent having severe problems. She had no specific figures for the Sikeston school district.

Sikeston woman to earn degree at home

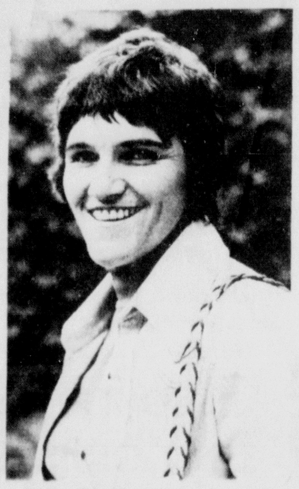
COLUMBIA — Mrs. Eugene Streetman of 304 Kennedy Drive, Sikeston, participated in a Stephens College University Without Walls common seminar Sept. 15-27 on the Stephens campus in Columbia.

University Without Walls (UWW) offers men and women opportunity to work toward a bachelor of arts degree from Stephens while continuing to live and work in their own communities.

Academic credit is granted for past and present learning experiences derived from career responsibilities, volunteer activities, apprenticeships and other training programs and credits earned from other colleges, universities and vocational schools.

All students entering UWW are required to participate in a common seminar in which students are reacquainted with traditional methods of learning, such as library research, and are introduced to the techniques of setting up independent studies in their home communities or places of employment.

Faculty advisers and career counselors help students define their personal and educational goals, then develop plans for reaching those goals. Students are encouraged to consult professionals in their own communities as resources for learning.



Mrs. Eugene Streetman

Students tailor- make their own plans of study to suit their individual needs.

Mrs. Streetman is coordinator of the practical nursing program in the Sikeston Public Schools. As an independent study in UWW, she plans to evaluate the nursing program's testing and evaluation procedures by comparing test items to the behavioral objectives and student responses.

This alternative approach to higher education was created by a 20- member Union of Experimenting Colleges and Universities in 1970. Stephens, a founding member of the union, initiated the University Without Walls on its campus in 1971-72. Member colleges and universities have adapted their own UWW programs on the basic premises of the external degree.

Registration is still open for three seminars -- Oct. 13-25, Jan. 12-24 and May 18-30.

Anyone interested in enrolling in UWW should contact Dr. James Waddell, director of UWW, Box 2005, Stephens College, Columbia, Mo. 65201, or phone 314-442-2211, extension 467.

At Stephens, an undergraduate women's college, students prepare for careers and/or graduate study while obtaining a liberal and fine arts education for life-long learning.

Mrs. Eshelman based in Bloomfield

Youth specialist appointed

BLOOMFIELD — Peggy D. Eshelman of Sikeston has been appointed a youth specialist for the university of Missouri Extension Division program in the six-county Bootheel area.

Mrs. Eshelman will be assigned to the extension center in Stoddard County, replacing Dee Goedeke who transferred to Mexico, Mo. She will be responsible for youth programs in Scott County, also.

The new specialist and her husband, Ross E. Eshelman, live at 600 Pine St., Sikeston.

Mrs. Eshelman is a native of Augusta, Kan., and is a 1968 graduate of Butler County Junior College at Ed Dorado, Kan. She received a bachelor's degree from Drury College in Springfield in 1970 and a master of arts degree in speech education from UMC in 1972. She has done additional work toward her doctorate at UMC.

Mrs. Eshelman will be working with four other extension youth specialists in providing leadership training to youth and adult volunteers in the Bootheel Area.

The four- campus University of Missouri and Lincoln University, the state's other land grant institution, provide extension programs not only in youth development, but in agriculture, family living, community development, and continuing education as well.

Weapon stockpiles dangerous

By SEN. STUART SYMINGTO

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The proliferation of nuclear weapons could be the most critical problem facing the world in the next few years; and unless we handle this problem, it will handle us. One miscalculation, one sudden terrorist activity, one paranoid leader could set the spark to a world wide nuclear holocaust.

There are now six nations which have detonated nuclear weapons or devices: the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, the People's Republic of China and India. France and the People's Republic of China continue to test nuclear weapons in the atmosphere.

The problem before the world today is whether this obviously dangerous trend toward further expansion of the "nuclear club" will continue.

Because of my concern about the lack of public knowledge about the great and growing danger of nuclear proliferation, I asked retired Rear Admiral Gene R. La Rocque, a highly decorated former military commander with considerable experience also in the field of arms control, to testify in open hearing before the Joint Atomic Energy Military Applications Subcommittee of which I am Chairman.

At my request Admiral La Rocque discussed the data which the Center for Defense Information, of which he is director, had compiled on the nuclear stockpiles of the two superpowers.

Brought out in the Admiral's testimony and included in the printed hearing are the following facts:

(1) The United States stockpile of strategic and tactical nuclear weapons is equivalent to 615,385 Hiroshima bombs. The Hiroshima bomb had the blast of 13,000 tons of TNT and immediately killed 85,000 to 100,000 people.

(2) The United States currently has enough strategic nuclear weapons to hit every Soviety city of over 100,000 people with 36 separate nuclear weapons. The Soviet Union has 11 strategic nuclear weapons for each U. S. city over 100,000.

(3) In the past two years, since the SALT agreement in 1972, the United States has been adding about four nuclear weapons each day of the year; whereas the Soviets are adding about one nuclear weapon per day.

With respect to the proliferation of United States nuclear weapons around the world, I called attention at the hearing to the fact that it is no longer a secret we have nuclear weapons in Greece and Turkey; also that, although the American people may not know it, it is no secret to the people of Korea that the U. S. has nuclear weapons on their soil.

Let us hope that all nations, large and small, will be able to see the scope, the very magnitude of this problem, because such public knowledge could lead to small but significant steps away from this brink of world disaster.

Area woman is delegate to meeting

CHARLESTON — Mrs. Carl Darnell, chairman of the Mother's March of Dimes for Charleston, attended the March of Dimes Regional Conference in Omaha, Neb., Oct. 3 and 4.

The two- day meeting was filled with various workshops and lectures to acquaint chairmen and volunteers with the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Darnell stated, after the conference, that the main emphasis in Mississippi County should be on the education of expectant mothers so that they wouldn't bear low weight babies.

Others who attended from this area were Mrs. Louise Smith, Scott City, and Shirley Sullings, Sikeston, both from the SEMO area chapter.

25 YEARS AGO

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-five years ago (Sept. 24, 1949), John Pont was a sophomore halfback at Miami, Ohio. He fumbled the season's opening kickoff on the four-yard line, retrieved the ball in the end zone, then ran for a 96-yard touchdown in a 23 to 6 victory over Wichita.

The victory also marked the first major college win for then new Miami coach, Woody Hayes, now the veteran Ohio State coach.

U. S. Navy marks 199th birthday

Early in October 1775, British warships descended upon American shores and burned the fishing village of Falmouth, Maine. The Continental Congress reacted with shock and authorized the acquisition and construction of ships for the Continental Navy. This action was the first naval legislation, and the genesis of the U.S. Navy.

Actually, the first American sea battle had already taken place off the coast of Machias, Maine.

In May 1775 when the British sent two sloops and an armed schooner to commandeer a load of lumber, they met instead a lumberman named O'Brien and his 40-odd loggers who were waiting on the wharf brandishing muskets, axes and pitchforks.

The British, with their well-armed ships, found this funny and turned their backs on the lumberjacks. That only irritated O'Brien and his boys into climbing aboard a lumber sloop and giving chase.

The loggers, swinging axes, rifle butts and pitchforks, swarmed aboard the English craft like timber wolves and down came the British. Within two months, O'Brien had captured three more British warships. He later became one of the Continental Navy's first officers.

In the first six months of the Revolutionary War, American naval vessels -- outnumbered by 75 warships and 2,244 guns -- captured 342 British warships and merchant ships. At its peak in 1780, the colonial U. S. Navy had 27 ships averaging 20 guns each. British naval strength at the end of the war was 469 warships, 174 of them mounting 60 to 150 guns each. And yet, in the end, the American mosquito fleet captured British cargo valued at some $600,000.

This year's 199th Navy birthday is being observed with the theme "Navy Birthday -- A Proud Tradition." The theme was selected to permit fleet and shore commands to explore and honor the historic contributions of all members of the Navy family.

In his special Navy birthday message, the Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. James Holloway III, said "Navy Birthday 1974 is both a celebration of the Navy's commitment to its own people and a pledge of continued commitment to the people of our nation.

"It is also a time of reflection and expectation as we pause to honor the Navy's tradition-makers of the past and present and dedicate ourselves, in a spirit of comaraderie and unity, to the tradition- makers of the future."

Probe continues into Hearnes administration

KANSAS CITY (AP) Delton Houtchens, former chairman of the Democratic Party in Missouri, did not seek out a spot on the board of directors in a bank in his hometown of Clinton, but was asked to join, the bank's former president has testified.

Adrain Craigmiles of Rich Hill, Mo., appeared before a federal grand jury Wednesday and testified he sought out Houtchens about joining the board of the First National Bank of Clinton while Houtchens had his party post.

The grand jury is investigating possible corruption in the administration of former gGov. Warren E. Hearnes. Houtchens was state party chairman the eight years Hearnes was governor.

The First National Bank of Clinton began receiving interest-free intangible tax deposits on April 3, 1968 with a deposit of $100,000 and received two similar deposits the following year.

Records at the state revenue department in Jefferson City show four more deposits of between $200,000 and $300,000 were received in 1971 and 1972. The records also reflect a deposit of $750,000 on April 19, 1972.

State law was changed in 1970 so such deposits were no longer interest-free, but they did draw lower than average interest.

Craigmiles was subpoenaed to bring records relating to the disposition of 67 shares of stock in the bank to Houtchens.

After testifying, Craigmiles told reporters only 10 shares of stock were involved, it did not take place in 1969 and Houtchens paid for the stock.

Craigmiles, who said he left the banking business in 1970, said Houtchens was paid $100 a month as a member of the bank's board.

Ann Landers

Kin deprived of treasure

Dear Ann Landers: I was stopped cold by the letter from the woman who hated to be photographed because she was overweight. She complained that certain members of her husband's family were very sneaky. They snapped candids of her from the worst possible angles at every opportunity.

My husband's mother felt the same way, only it was her nose she was self-conscious about. The dear woman died before I had a chance to meet her. I regret this because I'm sure we would have been very good friends.

The family respected my mother- in- law's wishes, and there's not a single picture of her anywhere. How my grandchildren and I would have treasured a single photograph, but, alas, there is none. -- Say Cheese, Please

Dear Cheese: "Vanity, thy name is woman!" Have you thought of her high school yearbook or relatives who go way back? I'll bet with a little imagination you could dig one up.

Dear Ann Landers: In recent weeks you have printed a number of letters about mothers and daughters who couldn't get along. The psychiatrist you quoted was wrong when he said, "Perhaps if the child showed some concern for the mother, the emotional support might serve as a bridge to help them both." I couldn't disagree more.

My mother and I had fights from the time I could talk until I was 25, which was four years after I married. I bent over backwards to please her but never could. She told me that when I was born she was miserable because I came too soon after my brother. I remember the black- and- blue marks from her fingernails when she pinched me, and the headaches from being slapped on the side of the head. I recall the day she pushed me against the stove because I didn't dry a glass properly.

When I took my dad's advice at 21 and moved out of the house she accused me of thinking I was "too good for the family."

Many years have passed and we get along fairly well now. I had almost forgotten the hell I went through until I read that letter in your column. I don't know what happened to change things. Maybe it was just the passing of time, or perhaps the Lord has dealt with her. Thanks, Ann, for letting me air my feelings .. Been There, Too.

Dear B.T.: If your description of the way your mother treated you is accurate, the woman was mentally ill. Perhaps your relationship improved when she regained her mental health. Consider that possibility, please.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the mother who was distraught because her daughter's illness was diagnosed as epilepsy. My reaction was quite different. I said, "Is that all? Thank god! I was afraid her life was in danger."

The neurologist told us to "let everyone know -- friends, family, schoolmates, teachers -- so they can help."

It was good advice. Being open has been much better for our daughter, too. She is not ashamed the way some epileptics are.

I have discovered that people can be wonderfully understanding if you give them a chance. Of course, there will always be those who are ignorant and thoughtless, but they should be pitied, not scorned.

Our daughter is living a normal life because she is a normal girl. The only difference between her and her non- epileptic friends is that she is on medication. -- There Now

Dear There: Your attitude is healthy and sensible. I hope it will help others to see their way more clearly. Thanks for writing.

Commission works for Bootheel

By MARK GEERS

MALDEN — "This is just about our busiest time of the year," says Philip Shelton, director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission. "All of the area's prospective programs must be submitted to the federal agencies being asked for funding between now and about Jan. 1."

This enables the federal agencies to meet their own July 1 fiscal year deadline.

The planning commission has been working on the applications most of the year, but it always seems there is some unfinished business that must be taken care of right up to the deadline. And because of the nature of the commission's role in area program planning, most of the last-minute worries fall to Shelton and his staff.

The Bootheel Regional Planning Commission (BRPC) and the Bootheel Economic Development Council (BEDC) serve jointly as advisory commissions, reviewing requests for state and federal funds from governmental bodies in the Bootheel area.

Any governmental unit, a town, a county, a water district, or whatever must channel its applications for funds through these bodies.

"The commissions have appointed a special committee, the A-95 PNRS (Project Notification and Review System) Committee, to handle all funding applications," Shelton said.

The process is complicated, but, as Shelton explains it, "Requests from governmental bodies for funding are sent to the A-95 Committee where they are studied to make sure they meet several criteria. The requests must be for projects of real value to area residents; the projects must be economically 'lean' and avoid waste, the requests must avoid duplication of funding and the projects must avoid duplication of effort."

After a request for funding has satisfied these criteria, the A-95 Committee will recommend endorsement of the request by the commission as a whole.

Normally, the commission will endorse noncontroversial funding requests with only a minimum of debate.

One observer explained it this way: "Most federal money goes to the urban areas -- St. Louis, Jackson County, and so on. The little money that does trickle down into our area is needed badly.

"Very few members of the commission are ready to vote against any area project, whether it is for their town or not. All of them feel they have to stick together to keep what little they are getting."

After the BRPC and BEDC have endorsed a funding request, and after the staff of the commission has prepared all the documents and blueprints necessary to complete the formal request, it is sent to the state clearing house in Jefferson City.

Here again, Shelton said, "All the requests are subjected to intensive study to make sure that there is no duplication of effort anywhere along the line."

From the state clearing house, the formal requests are sent on to the federal agencies being asked for funding.

But that is not the end of the process. "Sometime after the first of the year, the agency will contact us," Shelton stated.

"They'll let us know how the request for funding impressed them, and if they are interested in the project, they'll say something like this: 'We are interested in doing this kind of project this year, but we need to know which of the many requests we got from your area are the most worthwhile because we only have X number of dollars to spend, and we can't do them all.' "

This is the most delicate part of the commission staff's job. When the requests come back from the federal agency, the staff must return the applications to the A-95 Committee for an assignment of priorities.

Needless to say, someone's project is going to lose out at this point because the federal agency doesn't have money for everything. Those whose projects are slighted at this point may scream "unfair," but Shelton does not agree.

"The priority ratings take into account the number of people a project will serve, the area's need for the project in question, past projects an area has received, and also the needs of the other communities. The agency funding the project usually wants to spend the money where it will do the most good for the most people," he said.

Many people misunderstand the BRPC staff's role in this process. "We don't make those priority decisions," Shelton remarked. "Actually, our function is to produce and consolidate the plans for development by the various governmental units in the area into one master regional development plan.

"Our work is funded by eight or 10 federal agencies and by any number of local units because we provide services for all of them under a contract basis," he said.

The commission's A-95 Committee, which actually does assign the priorities to area funding requests, is made up of representatives from each of the six counties in the Bootheel region.

The members of the A-95 Committee are:

Lloyd Hogan of East Prairie, the committee chairman who represents Mississippi County; Dr. Harry Goddard of Kennett, who represents Dunklin County; Judge John Calvin of Sikeston Route Three, who represents New Madrid County; Judge D. J. Meredith Jr. of Caruthersville, representing Pemiscot County; Mayor L. F. Wheeler of Miner, who represents Scott County; and Mayor R. B. Woods of Bernie, representing Stoddard County.

Hundreds of programs funded by 14 different federal agencies are channeled through this A-95 Committee or the thousands of A-95 Committees like it in the rest of the country.

Some examples of the diverse programs they review can be found in the funding requests they endorsed at their last meeting, which was held Sept. 19 at the BRPC offices in the Malden Industrial Park.

Applications for funding reviewed by the A-95 Committee at that meeting included:

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Head Start Program is requesting funding from the Office of Child Development in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The DAEOC Head Start program operates in six Bootheel counties and benefits 1,300 children of low- income families.

The program, which provides medical, educational, nutritional and social services for children and parents of low- income families, is seeking a continuation of previous grants. The amount requested this year is $1,146,553 in federal money and $323,045 in local money for a $1,469,598 total.

What's the law?

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Ella met Alberto at a party and immediately succumbed to his Latin charm. While he was an alien, she quickly discovered that he wasn't alien to the ways of love. In fact, he was so good at it she married him a short time later. What she didn't know, however, was that during all the cooing, she was the pigeon.

Subsequent to their marriage, Ella discovered that Alberto had married her just to avoid deportation. She discovered this when he was arrested on charges of consipiracy to defraud the United States government by marrying a citizen to obtain legal residence in the U.S.

Nevertheless, Ella was more concerned with retaining her Latin Lover than his motives in having married her.

"If I'm not complaining," she insisted in court, "why should it bother anybody else?"

"Since he didn't seriously intend to be married," was the answer. "He only intended not to be deported. He deceitfully tricked you and everybody else entering into what amounted to an invalid marriage."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Alberto of conspiring to deceive his willing pigeon?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while Alberto may not have taken his marriage seriously, Ella did. In fact, noted the judge, she was real tickled about it. Consequently, concluded the judge, since it takes two to conspire and Ella was not a conspirator, there was no conspiracy and Alberto couldn't be convicted.

Chairman blasts proposal

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A proposal to limit the number of bills each legislator can submit for consideration has been blasted by the state's Democratic chairman as unconstitutional.

"The choking off of bills could be a violtion of the first amendment—freedom of speech," said Jim Spain Tuesday in reference to Republican state Sen. William Esely's proposal to limit representatives to three bills each and senators to six.

The Bethany senator, who faces state Rep. Hardin Cox of Rock Port in the general election, claimed such a measure would cut back on paperwork and bills introduced only for publicity value.

But in addition to calling the measure unconstitutional, Spain said it would be "certainly an open invitation to under-thetable payoffs" because "unscrupulous legislators" would sell their bills at high prices to special interest groups seeking consideration of legislation.

Some 1,200 bills were intoroduced during this year's legislative session, but fewer than 200 were given final action.

Cox, pointing to the uneasy economic situation that faces the state, called for a 90-day moritorium on spending for new or previously unfunded programs so solutions to inflation can be worked on.

The programs would not be wiped out, Cox emphasized, but only delayed to give the legislature time to "formulate workage solutions to the problems facing Missouri's economy."

Dr. Lamb

Testicle problem needs repair

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 7-year old grandson has an undescended testicle. His doctor says it will have to be surgically descended into the scrotum and that it should be done by the time he is 8 years old. Further, he says that normal development depends upon both testicles being in place in the scrotum.

My question is, in what way is normal development affected? What would be likely to happen if nothing were done about this? Is this a common situation among boy babies? If so, I wonder about the countless ones whose parents cannot afford surgery?

DEAR READER - Most doctors agree something should be done about the problem before puberty gets very far along, so doing it by age 8 is quite reasonable. Some boys can be treated by hormones at an early age, but this should not delay surgical correction if the boy is approaching puberty. That is why your doctor wants it done by age 8.

In the undescended testicle the part that forms sperm cells will degenerate and will not produce any live sperm cells for reproduction. The cells that produce male hormone, though, still function. If both testicles are undescended then the male may have a normal male personality and appearance, but he will be sterile. With one normal testicle producing sperm, though, he may still be able to father children.

This condition is rare, occurring in only about one in 200 male babies. Many of these will have a spontaneous descent in the first year of life. After that most of them won't descend unless corrected. And, there is an increased risk of cancer of the undescended testicle if it is not corrected. This is a small risk but, nevertheless, an additional consideration.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is the difference between stilbesterol and estrogen? Are they both hormones?

DEAR READER — Actually the body forms several different but chemically similar hormones that are estrogens. Substances that have the same or similar actions on the body can occur in nature. They can be obtained from petroleum, peat, lignite and even pussywillow. Estrogenic substances have even been found in the mud at the bottom of the Dead Sea.

In 1938 a synthetic substance was introduced called diethylstilbesterol, better known as stilbesterol. It is made in the laboratory. It is chemically different from estrogen but has the same effects. Today this drug is used primarily to treat menopause symptoms.

One very important difference is that stilbesterol can be taken in tablet form by mouth. Real estrogen hormones cannot. They are destroyed by the digestive action. So, you can see why stilbesterol has become so popular, you don't have to have an injection to get results.

There are two main hormones (or groups of hormones) produced by the ovaries, the estrogens and progesterone. The estrogens dominate the first part of the menstrual cycle, and the progesterones the latter part. The body uses two carbon units from any of your food and changes it to cholesterol, chiefly in the liver. Cholesterol is converted to progesterone. And, progesterone is converted to testosterone (male hormone) on the way to forming the estrogen group. So, it isn't surprising that males and females have both estrogen and testosterone.

The City Council will meet at 4 p.m. today to consider a proposal to place a $600,000 revenue bond issue on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Williamson charged in murder

DONIPHAN — Raymond Williamson, 57, of Doniphan is being held without bond by Ripley County authorities on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of an elderly Doniphan man.

The body of Clarence Farmer, 71, was found in an abandoned cistern by William Cates of Belleville Ill., on a farm Cates had recently purchased from Williamson.

The Ripley County sheriff's department said the killing apparently took place between June 17 and 21 while Farmer was staying with Williamson and his wife.

A lie detector test was administered to Williamson Tuesday night, and a spokesman for the sheriff's office said "he flunked."

After the test Williamson admitted shooting Farmer with a .22- caliber pistol, the sheriff's spokesman said. Williamson claimed the shooting was in self- defense.

Reports from the sheriff's office indicate Farmer and Williamson had frequently argued in the past.

Ripley County Coroner Howard Jackson said Farmer has no immediate survivors and no relatives have been located.

A preliminary hearing for Williamson is tentatively set for Oct. 21 in Magistrate Court.

State tries to give housing a shot in arm

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State officials have begun to move in two different directions in an effort to give Missouri's sagging home-buying industry a shot in the arm.

The Missouri Housing Development Commission, in a special session Wednesday, took the final official steps toward the sale of $25 million in general mortgage purchase bonds, the first such bonds to be issued by the state.

The bonds, to be sold Oct. 29 in Kansas City, will provide the commission with funds to purchase home loan mortgages on new or existing houses after they have been made by conventional mortgage bankers.

Although commission Director William Moore said the bonding plan is not meant to circumvent the state's 8 per cent ceiling on interest rates, which many claim has nearly dried up the home-buying market, he acknowledged that the influx of the additional money will definitely help to ease the usury rate problem.

The commission's actions came only hours after state consumer affairs chief Alfred Sikes, who had been directed by the governor to investigate the 8 per cent limit, said he had recommended the ceiling be lifted entirely on initial home mortgage loans.

Citing the 41 per cent decline in residential construction contracts in Missouri for the first seven months of this year, Sikes said in his report to Gov. Christopher S. Bond, "It is clear that our 8 per cent usury ceiling is compounding an already difficult situation."

Removal of the ceiling on home loans coupled with the recommendations of President Ford to revive the home-building industry would create an infusion of significant amounts of money into the state's homebuying market, Sikes said.

Revision of the usury law, which failed to come to a final vote this year in the legislature, would have to be done by legislative action. Gov. Bond has been urged to recall the House and Senate into special session to handle the problem, but has not indicated publically that he will.

Under the Housing Deveopment Commission's bond program, 18 Missouri-based mortgage bankers would receive and process loan applications and then sell the mortgages to the commission in packages of $250,000 or more.

Mercantile Trust Co., of St. Louis was named trustee and principal paying agent for the plan while the United Missouri Bank was chosen as depository for the bond funds.

but after that length of time, it's ridiculous," he said.

Golightly said he remembers one occasion when railroad employes were arrested for such a violation, but the police judge, who also was a railroad employe, dismissed the case.

Before the incident of parking his car on the railroad track, Golightly said he had asked Chaffee police to check into the situation, but they had replied that they couldn't do anything about it.

According to Police Chief Jimmy Dale Coats, he thinks Golightly just had a gripe with Frisco.

"We were going to haul the car away until Golightly saw we meant business and moved his car," Coats stated.

When trains hold up traffic, Coats said it does present a hazard for the city and that he plans to see what he can do to improve the situation

Sometime after 11 a.m. on Sept. 8, Mrs. Garrison's body was found by her 13 - year - old daughter by a previous marriage in the upstairs bedroom of their home in Kennett.

Mrs. Garrison had been severely beaten and shot once in the head with a small caliber revolver.

A trail of blood leading from Mrs. Garrison's bedroom through a bathroom, down a hall and a flight of steps, over a four-foot fence and then over an eight- foot fence was left by the assailant.

A surgeon's plastic glove and a handle grip to a pistol were found outside the home. Both items bore a considerable amount of blood. This blood and the blood from the assailant's trail allegedly match the doctor's blood type, O positive.

A "bloody fingerprint" was found on the top rail of the tall fence around the Garrison yard. The print was lifted, according to Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott, by the usual method: "dusting it, taping it and putting it on the card."

After Dunklin County authorities received a set of fingerprints taken from Dr. Garrison in Mississippi by the Federal Bureau of Investigation following his arrest on a warrant charging him with flight to avoid prosecution, they allegedly found one to match the print lifted from the fence.

The autopsy report, which Baker has refused to release, reportedly gives the time of death as between approximately 8 and 9 a.m. the morning of Sept. 8.

Several statements from persons, who were told by Mrs. Garrison of alleged threats against her by the doctor, were expected to be introduced.

Dunklin County authorities have hinted they have other evidence to link the doctor with the crime, and it was learned earlier this week that authorities have located a car matching one described by witnesses as being seen at Mrs. Garrison's residence at the time of the crime.

It was also learned that a coffee pot was found plugged in when officers investigated the crime.

To counter the prosecution charges, defense attorneys have compiled the following information:

--A notarized affidavit from Ronald Windsor, the Alcorn County, Miss., prosecuting attorney, who stated that the doctor arrived at his houseboat at approximately 8:30 p.m. Sept. 7 at Pickwick Lake in Tishomingo County, Miss.

The affidavit further states that Dr. Garrison went to bed about 9 p.m., following a day of National Guard duty. Windsor also stated that the doctor slept on the top berth of a bunk bed while Windsor occupied the lower berth.

Windsor related that he saw the doctor sleeping at 11 p.m. when he retired, then about 3 a.m. when he got up to get some medicine for a sore throat and again at about 6:30 or 7 a.m. when he awakened on Sept. 8.

The affidavit states that Dr. Garrison did not awaken until about 8 a.m., and that he did not leave the houseboat vicinity until approximately 2:30 or 3 p.m. that afternoon.

--The defense planned to submit Dr. Garrison's affidavit accounting for his whereabouts from 8 a.m. Sept. 7 until 3:30 p.m. Sept. 8.

--Defense attorney also were to submit results of a lie detector test administered to Dr. Garrison on Sept. 21 which indicate the doctor was truthful in denying any participation or complicity in the murder of his former wife.

--Garrison's lawyers were to present a letter from Edwin B. Coleman of the Mississippi First Judicial District Attorney's office. The letter states that Coleman and an investigator for the Mississippi Highway Patrol met with Sgt. Donald Shelton of the Missouri State Highway Patrol and Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 10.

At that time, Scott and Shelton told him that blood allegedly left by the assailant outside the Garrison home was type B blood. They further stated that Missouri authorities had checked Dr. Garrison's service records and found that his blood was type O positive.

Shelton also stated, according to Coleman, that a station wagon was seen behind the Garrison home at about 8 a.m. (the approximate time of death) on the morning Mrs. Garrison was found dead. The occupant of the vehicle was later traced to a hospital in Memphis where he was treated for a black eye and considerable scratches on his person.

--Garrison's attorneys had evidence to the effect that Dr. Garrison was found to be without cuts or wounds of any kind at the time of his arrest by the FBI. Pictures of the doctor were taken at the lawyer's request to verify this fact.

--Daily Standard investigators obtained statements from neighbors of the Garrisons that the Garrison's dog was disturbed by either a prowler or an unfamiliar visitor at 12:30 a.m. the night before Mrs. Garrison's body was found.

--Mrs. Garrison arrived home at about 1:30 a.m. She reportedly called her date of the evening at a bar in Portageville at 1:40 to assure him that she had arrived home safely.

--The summary of the autopsy report, which had been kept secret by Prosecutor Baker, stated: "The fatal wound was determined to be the gunshot which partly severed the midbrain. The entrance wound was at the left temporal occipital region with a powder burn around the entrance wound.

The body temperature was 33.6 degrees Centigrade at 1:30 p.m. One hour later the temperature was 33 degrees. Allowing for some variation, the time of death was estimated to be between 8 and 9 a.m.

In regard to the until now secret autopsy report, Farese stated, "Now I know why Baker didn't want to release it to us. This proves that someone else was with Mrs. Garrison on the night before her body was found.

"The autopsy report is exculpatory evidence," he said, "and the prosecutor must have recognized it as such. When he took his oath of office, he swore to protect the innocent as well as punish the guilty. I think he violated that oath by deliberately withholding from us evidence that would clear the doctor."

With the assistance of The Daily Standard's reporters, Farese was able to locate and speak with the two pathologists who performed the autopsy, Dr. Pin H. Pu and Dr. Robert Ahlvin. (Prosecutor Baker had refused to provide the pathologists' names to Farese.

Dodgers want to be best

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's an All-California World Series for the first time, and Steve Garvey said the Los Angeles Dodgers wanted it that way.

"We said collectively that we want to play the best team," said Garvey, hitting star of the Dodgers' 12-1 victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday that gave Los Angeles its first National League pennant in eight years.

"Oakland is the World Series champion and the American League champion again, so we have to beat them if we want to prove we are the best team in baseball."

The Dodgers — behind Garvey's two home runs and two singles, and Don Sutton's masterful pitching — whipped the Pirates Wednesday, winning the series three games to one. The two-time defending World Series champion A's eliminated Baltimore by the same margin in games for the American League crown.

The A's are expected to pitch Ken Holtzman, who blanked Baltimore last Sunday, and Los Angeles will open the series with Andy Messersmith, who beat Pittsburgh Sunday, in Saturday afternoon's game at Dodger Stadium.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston refused to draw a comparison between the Dodgers and A's because he hadn't studied scouting reports. "I don't know much about Oakland," he said.

Alston, whose first pennant came in 1955 when the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first World Series, didn't even want to compare his youthful 1974 team with those of even a decade ago, when Sandy Koufax pitched the Dodgers to a World Series triumph over Minnesota, the last time Los Angeles won it all.

"I'm so proud of this team with so many youngsters going so far as they have. This fella right here (Don Sutton) pitched outstanding ball for us."

Sutton, however, said the Dodgers, with young players in their second or third seasons — Garvey, Ron Cey, Dave Lopes and others — "are starting a dynasty." The 29-year-old pitcher, a rookie in 1966 when LA won its last pennant, said flatly that 1974's is the better team.

The Pirates, who won the NL East title for the fourth time in the last five year, had no qualms about picking the Dodgers to win the World Series.

"I pick the Dodgers," said Manager Danny Murtaugh. "I don't predict the number of games the series will go. I'll root just as hard as any Dodger fan for them in the series. It was a battle for the pennant up to now, and this is now a league vendetta."

"They outhit us, outpitched us and just outplayed us, all the way around," said Pirate center fielder Al Oliver. "They deserve to go to the World Series."

Pirates go quietly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the end the Pittsburgh Pirates went quietly.

They came into the National League playoffs with the league's best batting average at .274 but Dodger pitching held them to .194 in the four games.

Don Sutton, who shut out the Pirates in the series opener, allowed only Willie Stargell's home run Wednesday as the Dodgers beat the Pirates 12-1 and won the NL pennant three games to one.

The Pirates, who thrived on their power during the season, mustered only three hits off Sutton and relief mainstay Mike Marshall, who pitched the final inning and ended the game striking out Richie Hebner.

Sutton had seven strikeouts, getting Stargell swinging twice and Hebner two times.

Al Oliver, the No. 2 batter in the league with a .321 regular season average, was 0-for-3 Wednesday and managed only four hits during the series.

The somber mood of the Pirate locker room contrasted to the rowdy champagne celebration of the Dodgers.

The Pirates finally clinched the NL East championship the final night of the season, coming from behind, and hoped to do the same in the playoffs after getting behind the Dodgers two games to one. Instead, Los Angeles made certain of its first league title in eight years with a 12-hit attack that included two homers by Steve Garvey.

A few reporters gathered around Stargell's locker at the end of the clubhouse and could barely hear him say, "You can't say what you really think and feel" at a time like this.

"It's been a long year."

SMS cross country team to compete in Kentucky

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University's cross country team will return Saturday (Oct. 12) to Bowling Green, Ky., site of a dual meet a couple of weeks ago between the Indians the Western Kentucky University, for the Western Kentucky Invitational.

About eight teams will be entered in the 11 a.m. five-mile run.

Southeast Missouri State Coach Marvin Rosengarten expects his young squad, composed of all freshmen and sophomores, to be able to compete reasonably well against all the entries except Western Kentucky.

The Hilltoppers are one of the favorites to win the NCAA national championship this year, and they easily downed the Indians on Sept. 28. "Western Kentucky is way ahead of everyone," Rosengarten said, "but their coach told me all the other teams are close."

Among the other schools entered in the invitational are Middle Tennessee State University, Austin Peay State University, the University of Louisville, and Fisk University.

Rosengarten considered pulling out of the meet -- "our kids are a little on the tired side" -- but decided to stick with the commitment. After losing a dual meet Saturday to Eastern Illinois University, 22-37, the Indian harriers arrived at practice Monday "raring to go," he explained.

"We did very well against Eastern," said Rosengarten. "I guess I shouldn't say that when you get beat, but after one of our roughest years last year, everything looks good. I never want to go through that again (the Indians won only one meet)."

The fact is all of the Indian harriers posted their best times of the season against Eastern Illinois.

The Tribe's Ed White, a sophomore from Cape Girardeau, danced around the five- mile Capaha Park course in 25:13 to take third. And Randy Henderson, a freshman from St. Charles, put on a spurt over the last 300 yards of the race to take fourth with a time of 25:31.

1973-74 finish: W 47, L 35 — 1st place

Bill Sharman didn't win the NBA's Coach of the Year Award last season, but he certainly deserved some accolade for getting the Lakers into the playoffs. After the team had suffered two consecutive losses to Golden State late in the season and fallen two games behind the first-place Warriors in the loss column, Sharman salvaged their morale and directed them into the division title. It climaxed a season of major adjustments.

First, there was the defection of Wilt Chamberlain. Then, there was the trade of forward Jim McMillian to Buffalo for center Elmore Smith. After that, forward Connie Hawkins was acquired from Phoenix for swingman Keith Erickson. And finally, there were the injuries that kept superstar Jerry West out more than half the season. Now, with the off-season additions of Cazzie Russell from Golden State and rookie Brian Winters, Los Angeles probably has the best balance and depth of any team in the league.

FORWARDS: Hawkins, renowned for his individuality at Phoenix, became a team player under Sharman, trading his "showboating" tactics for a quieter approach to the game. Only on rare occasions does he lapse into his old style. Russell, who violently dislikes being a "sixth man," can fire in points at an incredibly rapid rate, but his defense leaves something to be desired. Happy Hairston and Bill Bridges are superior rebounders and defensive players, but lack scoring punch. And Kermit Washington is young and promising. Rating: B+.

CENTER: With the last-minute acquisition of Zelmo Beatty from the ABA's Utah Stars, Los Angeles has become the team to beat. Back-up center Elmore Smith blocked more shots than any NBA player last year and began hitting more high percentage shots. But he still had occasional mental lapses. Rating: A.

GUARDS: With West's playing time curtailed to 31 games, Jim Price, in only his second pro season, became a starter and handled it like a veteran. West, probably still the game's finest clutch shooter, will be making his farewell appearance in the NBA this season. If he can avoid injuries, he will rejoin Gail Goodrich in forming the best backcourt in the league. Between them, they averaged better than 50 points per game two seasons ago. They complement each other perfectly. If West gets hurt again, as has been his misfortune so often, Price again will be ready. So will veteran Pat Riley and Winters, an exceptional outside shooter. Rating: A-.

PREDICTION: No team in the league appears capable of matching the Lakers in over-all talent. Other clubs may have more outstanding players, but Los Angeles' well runs deep. It would be a fitting climax to West's illustrious career if the Lakers could win the league championship. First in Pacific.

California teams: 2 distinct groups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horace Greeley said something about young men seeking their fortunes in the West, and the Los Angeles Dodgers and Oakland A's did just that.

But when they put the baseball championship of California and the world on the line, it'll be very evident that more than 400 miles separate these teams, their styles, and their people.

Item:

Charley Finley, nattily-attired and overbearing, walks into the Oakland A's dugout before game time and checks Manager Alvin Dark's lineup card. If Finley doesn't like it, he just might order a change or two.

Walter O'Malley, chomping on a big cigar, sits in his private box seat, minding his own business, leaving the running of the Los Angeles Dodgers to Walter Alston, who has had the job for 21 years — all on one-year contracts.

Item:

Vida Blue, the A's pitcher who's been sullen for two years because of his 1972 contract dispute with Finley, is asked if there is any joy in the game of baseball.

"There's joy at payday," says the 25-year-old Blue. "Baseball is just a job."

Dodger pitchers don't talk like that. Dodger players don't act like Oakland players. They don't have clubhouse fights like the A's, whose superstar Reggie Jackson and young outfielder Bill North got into a brawl this year.

The Dodgers are mostly young and hungry athletes — a throwback to Branch Rickey's days in Brooklyn. Their stretchdrive flop last year was blamed on immaturity.

This year, the front office came up with two big needs — a power hitting outfielder and a relief ace in the persons of Jimmy Wynn and Mike Marshall — to go along with such young standouts as Garvey, Ron Cey, Bill Russell, Bill Buckner, Davey Lopes, Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith.

Lohr hopes for victory against UMR Miners

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The last time the University of Missouri -- Rolla defeated Southeast Missouri State University on the gridiron was in 1963. And the Indian victories over the Miners over the last 10 years have, for the most part, been by lopsided scores.

Southeast Missouri State Coach Jim Lohr, in his first year as the Tribe's head man, hopes that "circle won't be broken" as he takes his team into Rolla Saturday (Oct. 12) for a 2 p.m. game at New Jackling Field.

The contest marks the start of the 1974 battle for the MIAA championship. The Indians are the defending champions.

Both teams take 2-2 records into the game. The Miners, under Charlie Finley, now in his third- year, have beaten Missouri Western State College and Kansas State College-Pittsburg, while losing to Henderson State College of Arkansas and Missouri Valley College.

Southeast Missouri State has lost to Delta State College of Mississippi and the University of Evansville, Ind. The Tribe beat Missouri Southern State College and Arkansas Tech.

Last week, Finley's Miners were idle -- "resting and recovering" -- while the Tribe was drubbing Arkansas Tech 44-0. Despite the score, the contest was described by Lohr as the "hardest hitting" game in which his squad has engaged this season, and the Tribe has the injuries to show for it.

"Sick call" on Monday included Clifford Wicks, Rick Wieser, John Fritsche, Ron Reed, Mike Maguire, Craig Morgan, Steve Rogers, and Rick Schutt, although not all of them were injured in the Tech game.

The others should see action, at least on a limited basis.

Going into last Saturday's game, Coach Lohr knew that Arkansas Tech had a potent running attack, but had not been too successful with its passing game. This week he knows the Indian defense must be ready for either the pass or the run.

The Miners boast the best passer in the MIAA at this stage in Greg Haug, a 6-1, 185-pound quarterback from Ste. Genevieve, and the second and third best receivers in the conference in Merle Dillow and Stu Dunlop. Dillow is a 6-5, 222- pound tight end from Herrin, Ill., and Dunlop is a 6-3, 190-pound flanker from Herrin, Ill., and Dunlop is a 6-3, 190-pound flanker from Springfield, Mo.

UMR's ground attack is led by Mike Keeler, a 5-10, 175-pound running back from Wichita, Kan., and Mike Joshua, a 6-0, 205-pound running back from Chicago. They ranked number two and three respectively in the MIAA rushing statistics.

"Rolla has a good football team," said Coach Lohr. "In fact they're the most improved team in the conference, and they're going to have some success."

UMR needs only one more victory to match the number the Miners won last year when the chart read 3-6-2 at the end of the season.

It'll be Homecoming at Rolla Saturday, and the Miners would like nothing better than to post that victory then.

Coach Lohr will be counting on team depth, which he said "really paid off" in the Arkansas Tech game, to prevent this and enable the Indians to go over the .500 mark for the first time in 1974.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

Mystery machine aids farmer

Richard Dodson poses with one of the mystery machines that have plagued some Bertrand residents for several weeks.

The biggest square in the world is the Tian an men Square in Peking which extends over 98 acres.

Farmer uses guns to scare off birds

BERTRAND — Until a few days ago local residents thought someone was doing a lot of hunting or shooting at someone because every night they could hear what sounded like a gun shooting throughout the night.

An investigation by awakened and frightened neighbors found that Richard Dodson was the only one who knew the story.

Dodson, a farmer, has a large amount of milo growing in his field. After finding birds feasting on the grain early each morning, he placed five gasoline- operated guns throughout his field, set to go off at minute intervals and frighten away the birds.

Now that most of the residents know what it is, they go to sleep each night to the sounds of bang-bang.

It was reported on Dec. 7, 1968, that a book on febrile diseases checked out in 1823 from the University of Cincinnati Medical Library was returned by the borrower's great-grandson. The fine was calculated as $22,646, but waived.

Parole head named to board of directors

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — W. R. Vermillion, chairman of the Missouri Board of Probation and Parole, has been appointed to the national Board of directors of the American Corrections Association.

Vermillion will serve a one-year term on the board as a representative of the National Association of Paroling Authorities. He will be involved in setting up programs and determining the policy of the association.

The American Corrections Association is made up of federal, state and local organizations representing all areas of the criminal justice system.

American diplomat in good spirits after 13-day ordeal

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — American diplomat Barbara Hutchison was in good spirits and joking after seven leftist terrorists released her and six other hostages in return for safe conduct out of the country.

"Suddenly I became a tremendous bargain. I went from a million to nothing," the 47-year-old American quipped to newsmen Wednesday night after the 13-day episode ended.

The gunmen originally demanded $1 million ransom and the release of 37 leftist prisoners. They got nothing except a safe getaway.

The terrorists, who had held the hostages since Sept. 27 in a second-floor room of the Venezuelan consulate, were flown aboard a special Dominican jet to Panama, where they proclaimed victory and said they were exhausted.

As they left the Boeing 727 at Tocumen International Airport near Panama City, the gunmen, led by leftist Radhames Mendez Vargas, were met by Lt. Col. Manuel Antonio Noriega, chief intelligence officer of the Panamanian National Guard.

Miss Hutchison, director of the U.S. Information Service in the Dominican Republic, said she and the other hostages were treated well during the siege and even developed "something of a friendship" with their captors.

But she said there were many tense moments, the most difficult being "the waiting and then the various crises as they occur. There was a package of dynamite, and we were living with that."

At the same time, the terrorists were driven to the airport to board the special jetliner.

The largest ant in the world is the driver ant of Africa, workers of which measure up to 1.31 inches in length.

Dodge blends design, dependability

DETROIT — Buyers turned a very competitive year into a good one for Dodge in 1974.

And the new lineup provides an even better choice in model year 1975.

"While the entire industry's sales dipped below expectations during depressed conditions brought on by the energy crisis, Dodge was able to increase its market penetration," said Richard D. McLaughlin, general sales manager.

"Dodge moved from seventh to fourth place in industry sales in 1974. And one reason is that the division offered dependable products with great overall appeal.

"Coming off an all-time record year in 1973, Dodge is still in reach of its second or third best year in history.

"Dodge Dart is on its way to another division compact car record. And now, with an all-new line of intermediates heading changes for '75, Dodge strength is positioned exactly where the action is.

"Our new 1975 entries put us right on stream in the fast-moving intermediate segment.

"Intermediates and compacts rate a close 1-2 as the top two industry segments. Almost 70 per cent of Dodge buyers in 1974 selected cars from these two lines.

"We feel that our 1975 models represent the highest level of design from vehicle to vehicle that the division has ever introduced," said McLaughlin.

CHANGES AT A GLANCE

Dodge is introducing an all-new Special Edition as an intermediate specialty entry, an all-new series of Coronets, richer appearing Monacos and a variety of economy, sporty and luxury Darts.

Together with subcompact Colts introduced new for the calendar year, and a wide range of personal use-oriented vehicles from sport utility Ramchargers to Sportsman wagons and pickups, Dodge has assembled an across-the-board offering with great appeal.

The high level of design extends from pleasing exteriors to well-planned interiors. Engineering emphasis has been given to all-around performance, fuel economy, safety, serviceability, sound reduction, standarization and simplification of parts.

"Our new models represent automotive know-how that reflects what buyers really want in a car," McLaughlin said.

THIRTY-EIGHT MODELS

Intermediates represent eleven of Dodge's total 38 car models.

Most distinguished is the new Charter Special Edition, an exclusive Charger model for 1975. This two-door pillared hardtop represents a level of elegance and distinction never before offered in a Dodge intermediate.

It has all-new sheet metal, a new louvered fixed "opera" window and many of the design advantages introduced on Dodge full-size cars. The Charter Special Edition offers its own luxury level velour upholstery, carpeted trunk, shag carpeting and such options as power seats, door locks, and deck lid release, and Search-Tune AM/FM Multiplex radio.

Coronet presents a new image, too, with classically-styled two-door hardtops, sedans and two and three-seat wagons.

There are three trim and equipment levels in the two-door series, from the basic model on up to Custom and premium Brougham hardtops. These replace previous two-door versions of Dodge intermediates.

Sedans come in standard Coronet and Coronet Custom models. There's a low-priced wagon, middle-of-the-line Custom two and three-seat wagons, and premium Crestwood two and three-seat wagons.

Coronet sheet metal also is all new along with new bumpers, grille and lamps, wiper blades, lower belt line and larger door openings. Improvements extend to door latches, sealing systems, door glass guidance systems, hood latches and larger fuel tanks.

New options include remote control side mirrors, power seats and door locks, dual horns and electrically-heated tailgate defoggers on wagons.

Dart, as the division's volume line, will continue to offer eight models: the Sport and 360 Sport two-door coupes, Swinger and Swinger Special two-door hardtops, basic four-door Dart and Dart Custom sedans, and luxury two and four-door Dart Special Edition models.

While Dart exterior changes are minimal, there are new grilles, exterior colors and paint stripes, new interiors and some new options. Availability of six and eight-cylinder engines is expanded to all models.

With a "right-for-everybody" size and economy appeal, Dart is bidding for its seventh straight record sales year beyond the quarter-million set in calendar year 1973.

RICHER LOOK TO MONACO

And there are some changes in the nameplates to mark the three levels of elegance among Dodge's 13 models of these standard-size cars.

Valiant expanded line features styling, mechanical improvements

The Plymouth Valiant, America's top- selling compact car, offers an expanded line of models, plus up-graded styling and mechanical features of 1975, it was announced by Goza-Harper Motor Company.

In recognition of Valiant's continuing popularity -- nearly one out of every four compacts sold in the U. S. in 1974 were Valiants -- and the increasing demand for a variety of compact cars, two new highline models have been added.

"The additions we have made to the model lineup and the styling and mechanical improvements will help Valiant maintain its sales gains of recent years. Valiant is well on its way to setting its fifth consecutive model year sales record," Kelley Goza said.

"Valiant gained the largest share of market of any line in Chrysler Corporation and its popularity was instrumental in making Plymouth the third best- selling U. S. nameplate and placing Chrysler - Plymouth Division third among all American automobile sales divisions," he said.

"One of the new models is a sporty Duster coupe, the body style that has placed the line's sales gains. We're confident that we have a balanced line of real winners."

NEW MODELS: Added to the Valiant lineup for 1975 are the highline Duster Custom, a sport coupe, and the Valiant Custom four - door sedan. The premium Valiant Brougham four-door, introduced in mid-1974, is continued.

The complete line of 1975 models includes three sedans: Valiant, Valiant Custom, and Valiant Brougham; three coupes: Duster, Duster Custom, and Duster 360; and the Valiant Scamp and Valiant Brougham, both two-door hardtops. The coupes are on a 108-inch wheelbase, while the sedans and two-door hardtops have a 111-inch wheelbase.

All models except the Duster 360 offer as standard engines the more powerful 225 CID Slant Six or the 318 CID V-8, and have a new three- speed, fully-synchronized manual transmission. Duster 360 has the 360 CID V-8 and automatic transmission as standard.

The 198 CID six which was standard on 1974 models has been dropped from the line, and replaced by the 225, previously an optional engine.

JOWER REAR AXLE RATIOS FOR FUEL ECONOMY: For cars equipped with the 225 CID engine, the rear axle ratio is 2.76; those with the 318 engines use a 2.45 ratio axle and 360 CID engines have a 2.94 ratio as standard. An optional Fuel Pacer System, which warns the driver of excessive fuel usage, is continued for 1975.

A new optional manual transmission with an overdrive feature designed to improve performance and gas mileage will be available after the first of the year.

STYLING: Exterior styling changes to the Valiant include a new grille with integral park and turn signal lamps. The Brougham grille is chrome plated. There is a new rear lower deck applique for the Duster Custom and new side and rear tape stripes for the Duster. Sixteen exterior colors are offered.

There are six new high-quality upholsteries in cloth and vinyl or vinyl only for both bench and bucket seats.

Equipment added to the Valiant line for 1975 includes electric windshield washers, as standard. Options include bucket seats on the Scamp, speed control, dual horns, custom sport package for the Duster 360, and a protection group which includes inside hood release and glove box lock (standard on Brougham). Other options are: a radial tire roadability package, front sway bar and radial tires.

FASTER WARMUP

All 1975 Chrysler and Plymouth engines have thermostatic controlled heat valves in the exhaust manifold for faster engine warmup.

NEW ALTERNATOR

A new Chrysler- designed and manufactured high capacity alternator, rated at 100 amperes, is included on 1975 Chrysler and Plymouth full- and intermediate - size cars with electrically- heated rear window defrosters. Polypropylene oxide rubber mounts for the alternator are heat resistant, and help minimize noise and vibration.

1975 Oldsmobile Starfire

Olds Starfire is all new car

LANSING, Mich. — The 1975 Oldsmobile Starfire is an all-new car for the division. It is offered in one body style, a sport coupe, built on a 97- inch wheelbase with an overall length of 179.3 inches. A 231- cubic-inch V-6 engine and a console - mounted four-speed synchromesh transmission are standard with a three- speed Turbo Hydra-matic transmission available as optional equipment.

The styling of the Starfire includes dual rectangular headlamps mounted in a soft plastic front end panel that flexes with the energy-absorbing front bumper in minor impacts and returns to its original shape without damaging any of the safety systems of the car.

Functional louvers with bright edges are located in the rear quarter lock pillars to exhaust air from the passenger compartment for efficient flow- through ventilation.

The energy- absorbing rear bumper is also surrounded with self- restoring soft plastic material allowing the bumpers to be blended into the overall theme of the car.

The rear also features a hatchback door, revealing the carpeted load floor which may be extended by folding the rear seat forward. A space- saver spare tire and inflator bottle are stored in the right hand rear quarter well, hidden from view by a soft trim tire cover.

The Starfire interior features high- back front bucket seats with a choice of velour cloth, supple vinyl or leather trims with a center console and custom sport steering wheel standard.

The instrument panel has a large tachometer and a speedometer and also includes a fuel gage, an ammeter and temperature gage and warning lights for "low coolant," "oil pressure," "fasten seat-belts" and "brake" indications.

The door inner panels are padded vinyl with bright trim and map pockets on both sides. The inside door release lever is flush mounted near the top of the trim panel with the lock buttons located inside the combination door pull and armrest. The parking brake lever is between the seats on the console.

Front disc and rear drum brakes with power assist and 13- inch steel-belted radial - ply blackwall tires are standard. Variable ratio power steering, sport wheels and mirrors, protective body side moldings and air conditioning are a few of the available options.

The Starfire front suspension is an independent design with wear indicators on the lower balljoints.

The rear suspension is a new torque- arm design providing a strong, durable system capable of handling the torque reactions and driving thrusts while providing excellent vehicle ride, noise and handling qualities. The torque- arm member controls rear axle wind-up forces and dampens engine and drive line vibration. The torque- arm and lower control arms handle the rear axle driving and braking forces, leaving the coil springs and shock absorbers free to perform the single function of riding cushioning.

A LONG DRIVER

OLD WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Delich, the new assistant to golf pro Ben Roman at the Old Westbury Golf and Country Club, is getting a reputation as one of the longest hitters on Long Island. The 5-foot-11 Delich recently hit a ball 370 yards over the 18th green at the nearby Plandome course. The ball hit an umbrella on the terrace of the clubhouse.

Delich credits his long drives to timing and muscular control. He has a slow backswing and seems to hit a ball with little effort. "If I try to hit the ball hard I seem to lose distance," says Delich. Delich played quarterback for Utah's State's football team in 1963 and 1964.

Tinnin to head farm inquiry

PORTAGEVILLE — State Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin of Hornersville, chairman of a legislative panel studying Missouri's agricultural problems, announced today that he has scheduled a public hearing of his subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Committee on Agriculture to be held on Oct. 14 to explore possible remedies for certain segments of Missouri's ailing agricultural industry.

The hearing will be conducted at the University of Missouri Delta Center in Portageville and will convene at 2 p.m.

Sen. Tinnin said the hearing is called in conjunction with a study authorized by the Missouri General Assembly of certain conditions in the state's agricultural industry, particularly to determine the adequacy of state laws affecting corporate farming activities and to investigage the high cost of feed, grain and fertilizer which threatens an adequate food supply for consumers.

Tinnin explained that he is seriously concerned with present conditions which lessen the productivity and adversely affect the prosperity of family farmers in Missouri, as well as the resulting effects of massive corporate farming on the family sized farming operations and the general welfare of the people of Missouri.

"We need to preserve the family sized farms lest the big corporations branch further out into the agriculture field and get complete control of every aspect of agriculture," Tinnin said.

"Our farmers are already caught up in a near- chaotic cost- price squeeze," Tinnins said, "and Missouri farmers are literally taking a beating in the state's overall agriculture economy."

Findings of the subcommittee are expected to help determine the need for remedial legislation, if any, to solve existing problems in the state's agriculture industry, especailly the need to place some form of statutory limitations on the size and scope of the activities of family farming corporations.

Members of the legislative panel are Sen. Norman Merrell, (D) of Monticello; Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, (D) of Hornersville; Sen. William J. Esely, (R) of Bethany; State Rep. D. R. Osbourn, (D) of Monroe City; and State Rep. William Blackwell, (D) of Herman.

HORRIBLE 'GAME'

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Nelson Cresbo is yet another New York boy to play "the game" — and lose. He was crushed between a Queens apartment house elevator and the shaft wall while trying to ride on the roof of the elevator. After he had climbed out on top through a hatch, a friend pushed the down button. Cresbo's clothing apparently was caught somehow and the accident resulted. Police say a number of youths have died in Queens under similar circumstances in recent years.

Cadillac 1975

Two famous Buick names—Skylark and Special—are back in the line for 1975. The compact Skylark coupe (top) has a new roofline with wide door pillars and a fixed rear quarter window. The Special, a coupe in the Century line, has been given specific treatment to reduce weight and improve fuel economy. Both cars are powered by Buick's new V-6 engine. The Special offers an optional Landau top with exterior paint striping.

Buick introduces new car line

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 18 — Buick Motor Division introduced its 1975 line of cars today with emphasis on its small size offerings, a new V-6 engine, and further improvements in fuel economy through a variety of engineering and technological advances.

For additional emphasis on smaller size cars, two familiar Buick names have been returned to the line-up -- Skylark and Special.

George R. Elges, Buick general manager and vice president of General Motors, said that Buick was making the biggest line-up change in 1975 that it has ever attempted in a single model year.

The new line also will feature the introduction of the spectacular new rectangular headlamps which will be on all Electra and Riviera models and the sporty Skyhawk coupe.

The Skyhawk, a sub-compact, is the smallest car to carry the Buick nameplate in more than 60 years. It is mounted on a 97-inch wheelbase and is shorter by 20 inches than any other model in the line.

Along with its size and weight advantage, a key feature of the new Skyhawk will be its fuel- saving power train -- the Buick V-6 engine and 4- speed manual transmission.

In the next step up in size -- the compact Apollo -- Buick again will offer three models -- a four- door sedan, a hatchback coupe and a regular coupe. Both coupes will be called "Skylark," thus returning to the line a familiar name that was dropped in 1972.

"Special" will be the name for a Century coupe that has been especially engineered for economy. Through a variety of weight reduction measures, plus offering only the V-6 as the power plant, this vehicle has attained excellent fuel economy in Proving Grounds tests.

From 1962 to 1967, Buick built a V-6 engine that gained tremendous recognition for the combination of fuel economy and performance that it provided. However, in 1967, in the face of the trend toward more horsepower and performance, the V-6 was dropped from the line.

That basic engine, with a number of new features such as the catalytic converter and high energy ignition system, is now back in the line.

The V-6 will be standard on the sub-compact Skyhawk, the compact Skylark, and the intermediate Special, Century and Regal coupes and sedans.

All Buicks will be equipped with catalytic converters, high energy ignition and a fast- acting choke to meet the '75 emissions standard. All Buicks also will require no-lead fuel.

Buick's upper series cars, LeSabre, Electra and Riviera, have been given styling refinements for 1975.

LeSabre's major changes are in front, with new sheet metal, a larger grille and new headlamp treatment.

The four- door LeSabre has a new six- window roofline, which combines with traditional Buick styling below the beltline for a very contemporary look.

LeSabre, along with Electra and Riviera models, will have an attractice new instrument panel that has been designed for quick and convenient servicing from the front. All of the indicator lights are grouped in a data center at the right of the speedometer for quick and easy reference.

In the Electra line, there will be a four- door hardtop with a six- window roof design and a colonnade coupe with a fixed quarter window.
